Mrs. Wayne Richardson introduced Mr. Wade Wilmoth, a Boone business man, who gave the program for the evening. He talked on selling yourself to the public.

If we wish to be accepted warmly by others we need to show a genuine interest in what they have to say. When we listen to others and show an appreciation for their ideas, they immediately feel important. Remembering other people's names help, because our own names are the sweetest words we ever hear.

We all have something to sell whether it is an idea or something tangible. Perhaps the single greatest thing that we can do to sell ourselves is to be sincere. A phony interest will soon be detected.
