Mrs. E. V. Brown, Gatesville, CCC.
Mrs. T. W. Blanchard, Trotville, FERA.

Literature from headquarters has been sent to each person in regard to her subject.

There will be an "Institute of the New Deal" in Raleigh October 12, at the Sir Walter Hotel, at which Mrs. James H. Wolfe, acting director of the women's division of the National Democratic Committee, will speak in the morning. There will be a luncheon at the Woman's Club Building at 1 o'clock, at which the two senators and Chairman Wallace Winborne will speak.

Miss Parker sincerely hopes each one of the reporters and all interested women will avail themselves of hearing the national leader, Mrs. Wolfe, and gaining first hand information from one so well versed in the provisions of the New Deal.

Statement of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, Etc., Required by the Act of Congress of March 3, 1933.

Of The Chowan Herald, published weekly, at Edenton, North Carolina, for October 11, 1934.

State of North Carolina, County of Chowan.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared J. Edwin Bufflap, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Editor of The Chowan Herald, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in Section 411, Postal Laws and Regulations.

1-That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher—Buff's Printing House, Edenton, N. C.

Editor—J. Edwin Bufflap, Edenton, N. C.

Managing Editor—J. Edwin Bufflap, Edenton, N. C.

Business Manager—Hector Lupton, Edenton, N. C.

2-That the owner is: Buff's Printing House, Edenton, N. C., owned by J. Edwin Bufflap and Hector Lupton, Edenton, N. C.

3-That the known bondholders, mortgagees and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities, are: None.

4-That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

J. EDWIN BUFFLAP, Editor.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 9th day of October, 1934.

W. H. GARDNER, Notary Public.

(Seal) My commission expires May 8, 1935.

Funeral Of James T. Foxwell Held Sunday

Funeral services for James T. Foxwell, aged 48, of Norfolk, who died Saturday morning at 4 o'clock at St. Vincent's Hospital, following an automobile accident the week before, were held on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Rev. E. L. Wells, pastor of the Edenton Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was made in the Ashley burial grounds at Rocky Hook.

Mr. Foxwell died of injuries sustained when he fell from the running board of a truck on Saturday of last week. He was a native of Chowan County, but had made his home in Lynnhaven for the past fourteen years.

The deceased is survived by his wife, Mrs. Vira Ashley, one daughter, Miss Sallie Foxwell of Lynnhaven, his father, Henry Foxwell, Sr., two brothers, Henry Foxwell, Jr., of Bertie County, and John Foxwell of Perquimans County, and two sisters, Mrs. I. E. Halsey of Chowan County and Mrs. Ernest Brewer of Littleton.

Doubt Concerning Certificate Market

Southern cotton growers will hardly be able to sell all of their surplus tax-exemption certificates this year, says Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College.

The surplus certificates will cover 1,639,474 bales, he said, while the overproducers will need only enough certificates to cover 431,223 bales.

This means that growers with surplus certificates which are not sold this year will be allowed to hold them over until next year and use them in the selling of tax-free cotton.

In other words, said the dean, if a grower holds over one certificate and then gets a Bankhead allotment of three bales next year, he can raise four bales, selling three of them under next year's certificates and the fourth under the certificate he held over.

Growers with surplus certificates may sell or barter them at the rate of four cents a pound to a neighbor who has excess cotton. If they have no such neighbor, they may turn them over to the county agent, who will place the certificates in the national pool, where as many of them as possible will be sold. The unsold certificates will be returned to the growers, who can hold them over until next year.

Schaub advised against the growers selling surplus certificates at less than four cents, since this is the price established by the secretary of agriculture. The certificates will be worth four cents next year, he added, or perhaps more.

Eradicate Disease Among Dairy Cattle

Studies made by the North Carolina experiment station and the veterinary division of the state department of agriculture is helping dairymen rid their herds of bang's disease, according to Dr. C. D. Grinnells, in charge of dairy research at State College.

Veterinarians and dairymen over the State have been working with the experiment station and the veterinary division during the past five years, he said, and deserve credit for much of the work done.

The only way now known to eliminate the disease is to remove from the herds all animals which are infected. This means that dairymen have frequently had to slaughter some of their best animals, Dr. Grinnells said, but they have made the sacrifice in the interest of the future.

At present there are about 115 herds in the State which are known to be free from the disease, including 55 which are complying with the regulations governing the award of accredited herd certificates.

To aid in the fight against the disease, which is sometimes known as contagious abortion, the U. S. bureau of animal industry is now paying indemnities to dairymen who sign agreements to comply with the regulations; that infected animals be slaughtered, that safeguards be exercised in the purchase of new animals, that good sanitation be maintained, and that herds be retested so that any reinfections may be discovered.

Under the agreements, the government will pay not more than $20 a head for grade animals and not more than $50 a head for registered, purebred cattle, Dr. Grinnells said. The owner will be allowed to keep the salvage value of the animal slaughtered.

Young Democrats Hold Meeting At Washington

More than 150 Young Democratic leaders representing every section of the country pledged their support to President Roosevelt and the New Deal policies at a meeting recently of the national committee and state presidents of the Young Democratic Clubs of America in Washington, D. C.

ing more than 2,500,000 young men and women of the country who are members of the various local Young Democratic Clubs, also adopted a program of militant activity in support of congressional, state and local Democratic candidates in their respective states between now and November 6th.

The creation of a National Finance Committee to raise funds for carrying on the activities of the Young Democratic Club movement was authorized and plans for publishing a national newspaper to serve as the official organ of the Young Democratic Clubs of America were also approved.

Cliff Woodward, of Iowa, president of the national organization, said the meeting was the most enthusiastic ever held by the Young Democratic Club groups and that many important matters were accomplished which will prove of permanent benefit to President Roosevelt's recovery program.
