

Local Ford Dealers On Way To Detroit

J. V. Mann, Gilbert Evans and W. D. Williams, of the J. V. Mann Motor Co., local Ford dealer, left for Detroit Wednesday with some 140 Ford dealers from Virginia and North Carolina, who with 7,000 others from all sections of the United States, will move into Detroit by special trains this week-end for a two-day gathering at the Ford Motor Company's factory, the first assembly of its kind in the history of the Ford organization, for a display of the forthcoming year's models of the Ford V-8. They will be guests of the Ford Motor Company while in Detroit.

Wives and members of the families will travel with the Ford dealers in this spectacular gathering at Detroit, which will last through Friday and Saturday, bringing every dealer in the country into personal contact with Henry Ford, creator of the gigantic industry that bears his name, and Edsel Ford, his son, who is president of The Ford Motor Company.

The high note of Friday's program will be the first view of the 1937 model of the Ford V-8. The dealers and their guests will be taken through the Rouge and Linden plants of The Ford Motor Company for their first view of the car that will be offered the public shortly.

Dealers in the Norfolk Branch territory will gather at Norfolk and other focal points to board a special train for the ride to Detroit. Special cars of dealers and their wives will be picked up at Suffolk, Petersburg, Lynchburg, and Raonake, and the huge special train will arrive in Detroit for breakfast on Friday morning.

Funeral Held Friday For Mrs. B. W. Locke

Funeral services were held at the grave in Beaver Hill Cemetery Friday afternoon for Mrs. B. W. Locke. Mrs. Locke, a former resident of Edenton, was 67 years of age, and had been living with her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Smith, at Spartanburg, South Carolina, at whose home she died. She had been in ill health as the result of cancer of the stomach, but was confined to her bed only about four weeks.

The deceased was the widow of B. W. Locke, for many years superintendent of the Edenton Electric and Water Department, who died December 13, 1930. The body was brought to Edenton on the Norfolk Southern train and was conveyed to the cemetery, where the service was in charge of Rev. E. L. Wells, pastor of the Edenton Baptist Church. A number of her favorite hymns were sung by a male quartet consisting of W. Jim Daniels, George Lassiter, W. J. Berryman and Chas. H. Wood.

Mrs. Locke is survived by two sons, J. D. Locke, of Pell City, Alabama, and Charles Locke, of Spartanburg, and one daughter, Mrs. W. A. Smith, of Spartanburg.

Pallbearers were W. J. Daniels, G. E. Cullipher, Dr. M. P. Whichard, Antone Davenport, Paul Olsson and J. Edwin Bufflap.

Pontiac Boasts Much Improved Automobile

Chas. Jenkins Motor Company have now on display the new 1937 Pontiac cars and issue a special invitation to the general public to see and drive one of the new cars.

Pontiac for 1937 has two lines of cars, a de luxe six and de luxe eight. The new models are longer in wheel-base, roomier and lower. They have been redesigned with improved riding. Larger and more powerful engines give faster acceleration, higher top speed and more economy.

Master six models in the 1935 and 1936 lines have been discontinued, and economies of engineering and manufacturing can be concentrated on a single line of sixes and eights of equal quality, the company states.

With the widening market of the last two years and the evident willingness of greater numbers of motorists to pay just a little more money for a lot more value, Pontiac should gain both sales and prestige by this astute move.

Both lines will offer seven body styles: business coupe, sport coupe, cabriolet, two-door sedan, two-door touring sedan, four-door sedan and four-door touring sedan, although the straight sedans in both two-door and four-door eights will be built on order only.

The 14 bodies will be available in seven colors: black, blue, brown, gray, green, maroon and cream.

A choice of light tan mohair or mixed wool upholstery is provided, except for convertible coupes which are trimmed either in buffed, crush grain, tan Spanish leather or taupe colored wadded Bedford cloth.

The most identifying Pontiac marks of the last two years, the silver streak radiator and hood grilles, are being retained with some modifications. Radiator and top hood grille extending from bumper to cowl is narrower for 1937, consisting of a wide center bar separating six narrower bars.

Visibility has been improved by making the windshield two inches wider and higher and increasing its angle of slant from 31 to 39 degrees.

Although most of the basic characteristics of Pontiac engineering have been retained, the chassis has been redesigned where necessary to meet the trend toward longer and lower cars.

years. Last year's registration was 1,563, and the figure for the previous year was 1,382. Chowan County is represented by Misses Julia Belle Cozzens, and Evelyn Jackson, of Edenton.

Colored High School Plays P. W. Moore

Football fans will have an opportunity for the first time this season to see the Edenton colored high school football team in action this (Thursday) afternoon on Hicks Field when they will oppose the strong State Normal School eleven from Elizabeth City. Both schools have powerful teams and a battle royal is expected.

The local squad last Friday played the P. W. Moore school to a scoreless tie in Elizabeth City. To date they have lost a game to Booker T. Washington, of Suffolk, Va., by the margin of a safety and today will uncork their bag of tricks and open up their powerhouse in the hope of adding a victory to their credit. Coach R. L. Kingsbury boasts a powerful line and a quartet of fast backs that should furnish plenty of thrills to local fans.
