

Inauguration On Jan. 20 Scheduled Be Most Brilliant In History

When Franklin D. Roosevelt takes his second oath of office as President of the United States on January 20, the thousands of visitors in Washington will witness one of the most brilliant Inauguration Ceremonies in the history of the Government. Already work has begun on the grandstands at the Capitol—the largest seating ever provided for any inauguration—to accommodate the dignitaries who will see Charles Evans Hughes, Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, administer the oath of office to the President. For the first time all representatives will join senators, cabinet members and diplomats in the seating section on the Capitol's east portico behind the President's stand. More than 50,000 people will be able to see the parade from grandstands lining the parade route.

Although the President wants the ceremony itself conform to Jacksonian simplicity, he hopes the parade will be as colorful as all the states participating can make it. Col. Edwin Halsey, secretary of the Senate, announces.

The President will review the parade in a glass enclosed stand—the Court of Honor—patterned after the Hermitage home of Andrew Jackson in Tennessee. This motif will be followed in the decoration of the stands and it is understood that the merchants are eager to employ the same design in their decorations.

FEEDING DEMONSTRATION BRINGS PROFIT ON HOGS

Windsor.—After paying for all feed consumed at market prices, Oscar S. White of White's township in Bertie County made a net profit of $183.81 on his hog feeding demonstration this year, reports County Agent B. E. Grant. The pigs were fed 149 days and made an average gain of 1.17 pounds a day. Each pound of gain required 3.64 pounds of feed which was valued at .0405 cents. During the feeding period each pig made an average gain of 162 pounds which was sold for .10725 a pound or an average profit of .0667 cents a pound, says Grant.

NEAT PROFITS ON HENS

Mrs. G. H. Winslow of route 2, Elizabeth City, made a net profit of $122.38 from her flock of 481 White Leghorns hens during the month of October, reports County Agent G. W. Falls. The feed cost for the flock was $74.05 and total receipts, including eggs used at home, was $196.43. A flock of 232 birds, owned by C. W. Ives of the same community, showed a net profit of $54.54 for the month, says Falls.

Out-Door Decorations Urged To Be Finished By Sunday, Dec. 20th

Those who anticipate decorating out-door Christmas trees this year are urged to have their display completed by Sunday, December 20. This request was made by members of the Garden Club, which organization will select the two winners, in order to allow plenty of time to make a complete inspection of all out-door decorations.

Town Council, in an effort to stimulate interest in out-door Christmas decorating, has again this year offered two prizes for the most attractive displays, first prize being $10 and second prize being $5.

Clean Up Orchards To Control Codling Moth

"Don't blame the weather or your spray materials for that big pile of cull apples in your orchard this fall. If you had sprayed properly and carried out other control measures as you should, codling moth infestations wouldn't have been so bad," said H. R. Niswonger, extension horticulturist at State College.

Growers who were careful to keep the moths and worms down made good crops of fruit, he added, and what they did this past year other growers can do next year.

The first step in controlling the moth is to clean up the orchard and packing house now that the harvest is over.

All dropped fruit under the trees and all culls around the orchard and packing house should be removed or buried in a trench. This should be done as soon as possible.

The last brood of worms leave the infested apples and hibernate in the ground, under loose bark, and in cracks in the apple crates or in the packing house.

Scrape loose bark off the trees and burn it. Examine all crates and all crevices in the packing house for worms. Destroy the worms as fast as they are found.

Scout around the edge of the orchard for worthless or neglected apple trees. Such trees are often skipped at spraying time and thus remain as breeding places for the moth.

Make the packing house moth-tight so that even if codling worms survive the winter inside, the moths will not be able to get out to infest the trees in the spring.

District Stewards Meet At Methodist Church

The district stewards and preachers of the Elizabeth City District will meet at the call of the presiding elder, B. B. Slaughter, tomorrow morning at ten o'clock at the Edenton Methodist Church. They will discuss plans and work for the district for the coming year. Mr. O. H. Brown will represent the local church at this meeting. The ladies of the church will serve dinner at the church for the group.

JOHN, YOUR HAIR IS A FRIGHT HERE. USE MY FOM-OL!

Wives, mothers, sisters—they're often forced to point the way to hair health to their men folk! For women know that a healthy head produces handsome hair! And that's why women everywhere are pointing to Fom-ol, the remarkable foaming shampoo which first nourishes the scalp, then makes the hair grow and keeps it back to flowing health. Fom-ol is economical—a little goes a long way. Ask your druggist for the regular 50c size. Or, write for a generous trial bottle, enclosing 10c to cover packing and postage.

Give Poultry Alfalfa Leaf Meal In Winter

Poultrymen find it harder to give their birds a well balanced diet in cold weather when little, if any, green feed is available.

Even if some green feed is available, the birds usually do not have point out more strongly than before the importance of producing scratch feed at home when possible.

He also asked, "Are you satisfied with the performance of this year's flock? If not, plan to replace your birds with better stock."

"In many instances, poultrymen will step out ahead if they do no breeding from their present flocks, but replace their birds in the spring with highly bred chicks from a reliable source."

ANSON FARMERS GET $1,872 FOR THANKSGIVING TURKEYS

Wadesboro.—Checks amounting to $1,872.84 were delivered to 30 farmers in Anson County in payment for a shipment of turkeys made last month, reports County Agent J. W. Cameron. The shipment contained over 8,000 pounds of turkeys and was sold direct to the packers. Prices are lower than expected, but turkey growers feel that they are fair and will continue in business. Arrangements are now being made for the Christmas sale with indications for a heavy demand, Cameron says.
