Two Auto Accidents Occur in Edenton

Two motor smash ups occurred in town, one Sunday afternoon and the other about the same time Monday. In both cases there was some car damage and the slight injury of one rider, a Mrs. Mary Goodwin, 60 years old of Hertford.

In the Sunday mishap cars driven by W. H. Heath, a new Edenton resident living on Oakum Street, and Jno. G. Hoggard, Bertie county treasurer, came together at Queen and Court streets, upsetting Heath's car and throwing Heath into the street. The police say Heath, a former resident of Gates county, was driving without a license, and a complaint has been made against him.

The Monday crash occurred on upper Broad street in front of the Shell Filling Station. Bob Boyce in an ancient Model T Ford was going north followed by Marion Riddick, Hertford insurance man, with Mrs. Goodwin as a passenger, in a brand new Plymouth car. Boyce started to make a left hand turn and Riddick ran into him. The Boyce vehicle sustained a dented fender, the car of Riddick suffering about $200 worth.

Bertie Wreck Victim Buried On Saturday

The second motor fatality in this neighborhood within a week occurred Thursday night when Mrs. J. H. White, 36 years of age, of the Perry's Cross section in Bertie County, was killed in a three car crash on the Windsor highway and her 3 year-old son, Tommy, with her at the time, was badly injured and had to be taken to the Windsor emergency hospital where his mother died. Three others, Louis Harrell and Elsbary Whedbee, of Hertford, and Jim Hendrix of Winfall, were also superficially hurt, and two others, Roy Littleton, of New Bern, and Arthur Jones, a hitchhiker were put under $750 bonds at Windsor charged with manslaughter.

According to Highway Patrol Sergeant A. W. Welch, of Abbeville, called in on the accident Littleton's truck was making toward home. Between White's Filling station and Salmon Creek, it blew a rear tire and the occupants stopped along the highway to repair it. Welch and Corporal George Dail say the vehicle was without lights and that this was responsible for what later happened.

Mrs. White and her son were returning home. The woman was driving a light pick up truck and without seeing the Littleton vehicle crashed into it and swerved off onto the left hand side of the road directly into an east bound truck carrying the Hertford lads. All three cars were jammed in a triangle and Mrs. White was thrown out and rendered unconscious. She was hurried to Windsor with her son but died shortly after reaching the hospital. Harrell and Whedbee were brought to Edenton and given first aid treatment by Dr. L. P. Williams, later going on to their home.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon in Bethany Church with Rev. Mr. Bryant officiating. A large crowd attended the funeral despite the bad weather. Inherment was made in family burial grounds of T. J. White.

Limiting Season Worry Herring Fishermen

drastic conservation steps, even more than the state had considered. North Carolina, he said, expects the government to help with fish hatcheries and in turn the State must show a willingness to cooperate even at a sacrifice on the part of the fishermen.

Mr. Whedbee was the first of the auditors to speak declaring his clients were entirely satisfied with the April 15 date but felt the season should open earlier than February 15 as suggested by the committee. He told the committee it was his opinion, due to the contemplated fishing dates affecting fishermen in different localities, that the territory be divided into sections and separate dates set in order to allow fishermen to catch the money crop of fish aside from shad.

Mr. Wood referred to the shallowness of Oregon Inlet as another objective feature. He felt that a great hardship would be worked on herring fishermen by limiting their season to the April 15 date.

Suggestions were also made that shad be thrown back in the water, but Mr. Small said this was not feasible as shad were a very nervous fish and would not survive the excitement of being trapped and later released. Mr. Smith stated those in attendance represented a herring catch last spring of something like 60,000,000 fish and that to interfere with this by any seasonal limitation was unthinkable. Mr. Smith followed again with the positive statement that to end the season April 15 meant to stop herring fishing entirely and "I shall be one who will most likely quit if this date is fixed."

Mr. Belch, of Colerain, took the same position, but Mr. Winborne seemed to think it would be all right if the committee would even set the season from April 15 to May 10. Mr. Elliott offered an interesting table of statistics to show that off Cannon's Ferry last spring before April 15 there had been but 108,081 herring caught, but that after April 15 the catch had been 1,404,891. Included in this larger batch, he said, were only 150 shad.

Mr. Horne asked for a show of hands of all who were opposed to favoring any move to help the shad industry and not a single hand was raised. And upon a vote for a shorter season, a majority of hands were shown.

"Well," said the chairman in closing. "We might as well understand that unless we govern ourselves somebody else will govern us," and appealed for the cooperation and interest of the fishermen in a matter that cannot be remedied by a magician.

The U. S. Bureau of Fisheries has announced it will call a conference of seaboard game and fish commissioners who have control over shad fishing in their states to a meeting to be held in Atlantic City, N. J., February 6. Conservation of the industry is required, the same announcement states, and some general, correlated plan to encompass this will have to be worked out at the conference.
