

Town Council Turns Thumbs Down On Idea Of Zoning City

Broad Street, Church To Freemason, Affected By Plan

56 SIGN PETITION

Discrimination Against Other Residential Sections

Deciding that the matter of zoning the city into business and residential district would involve too many complications, Town Council on Tuesday night failed to take any action upon a petition presented with this idea in mind. The petition requested Town Council to consider zoning Edenton into residential and business districts and particularly emphasized a request that that portion of Broad Street lying between Church Street on the south and Freemason Street on the north and on both sides thereof be restricted to residential purposes.

It is believed that reason for the petition is due to a recent desire of the Quinn Furniture Company to purchase and transform the property now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Lassiter into a funeral home and upon further information that a new filling station is to be erected within the area referred to in the petition.

It was the consensus of opinion on the part of the Councilmen that to comply with the petition would be unfair to property holders who might desire to dispose of their property for business purposes. Then, too, it was generally agreed that it would be discrimination against other residential areas, which if adopted would prevent any expansion whatever in the business district.

Though none of the signers were present at the meeting, those who affixed their names to the instrument were:

Better Business

Business at the Edenton post office shows an upward trend, according to Postmaster C. E. Kramer, who reports that postal receipts both for the same quarter and six month period has exceeded last year's sales for the same time.

For the quarter just closed receipts over the same quarter last year are $534.57 ahead, while for the same six month period receipts are leading last year by $1,055.11.

Leary Bros. Make Record In Amount Of Corn Handled

20,000 Bags Sold From June 24 to July 13 By Warehousemen

1,200,000 EARS

Average of 10½ Cents Per Dozen Brings In $10,500

Whether or not the watermelon, cantaloupe, tobacco, cotton and peanut crops fall short of expectations this year, corn in Chowan County is rapidly taking a place among the leading crops which is attested to by J. Clarence Leary of the Leary Bros. Storage Company. During the brief period between June 24 and July 13, says Mr. Leary, his warehouse has sold 20,000 bags of corn which netted growers $10,500.

Each bag contained five dozen ears of corn which totaled 1,200,000 ears handled by the Leary concern alone. At an average of 10½ cents per dozen the income amounted to $10,500.

The major portion of this corn was the Norfolk Market variety and according to Mr. Leary, farmers are gradually increasing their acreage for the Stowell Evergreen variety which is more prolific and an indication that next year's crop will even surpass the record established this year by the Leary brothers.

Active Program For High School Band

Camp and Several Appearances Included In Schedule

Charles L. McCullers, local bandmaster, has mapped out a pretty active summer for his boy and girl high school bandsters. In addition to several open air concerts here during the remainder of this month, the youngsters are looking forward to a great time in camp, starting August 1. Mr. McCullers has picked a fine spot for the camp, down along the Pamlico River, near Little Washington, and will personally be with them, as will a number of the parents to act as chaperones.

A full attendance of the children is anticipated at the camp. Three instructors will be on hand to keep the band playing active four hours daily. Mr. McCullers is certain that this training in camp will make his pupils very fit and put them in shape to compete with any big time college band in fancy drills and playing.

It is the McCullers' plan to have the band, he says, attend all the football games during the fall, and he expects them to be a sensational hit at each. In addition to this expectation the band will have a part in some way at the "Lost Colony" pageant next month, and will, also, participate in the Wilson Tobacco Festival parade on the morning of August 18, and at the Albemarle Sound bridge celebration, August 25.

Mr. McCullers is very anxious to have his band boys and girls cooperate with any local chambers of commerce in advertising and boosting Edenton.

Edenton Drops Out Va.-Carolina Loop

Lack of Interest and Attendance Given as Reason

Edenton's entry in the Virginia-Carolina League, following the game with Craddock Sunday afternoon, withdrew from the Sunday baseball loop. This action was taken due to an apparent lack of interest reflected in attendance, thereby causing a gradual financial deficit. Rather than continue and increase indebtedness Edenton's officials decided to abandon play while it was possible to pay all outstanding bills.

Earlier it was expected the franchise would be taken over by the Cotton Mill team, but the latter refused to accept, feeling that it would face the same financial difficulties as the Edenton team. At present the Cotton Mill has a very strong aggregation with no expense for hired players or umpire, whereas in the league a $15 guarantee must be paid visiting teams and $5 paid for an umpire. Aside from this expense the Edenton team has been obliged to hire a pitcher and at times one or two other players which expenditure usually was in excess of gate receipts.

The game Sunday resulted in a victory for Craddock, the score being 9 to 4. The locals were badly crippled, being obliged to use Tom Hoskins on the mound, Vernon Spruill on first base, and outfielders Trot Leary, Melvin Layton and John Byrum at infield positions. Hoskins, though very wild, pitched effective ball except in the first inning when the Craddock hitters scored five runs before letting up on slapping the ball to all corners of the park. Edenton collected eight hits, three of which were made by Caleb Goodwin, playing center field.

New Veterinarian Locates In Edenton

Dr. P. W. Tedder Assisting In Disease Control Among Swine

Dr. P. W. Tedder, of Hartsville, S. C., is one of Edenton's newest residents, coming here to be of particular service to farmers of the Albemarle area. Dr. Tedder is a veterinarian working under the State Department of Agriculture and is primarily here for the education of farmers and offering his assistance in controlling disease among swine. This service is free and in no way conflicts with the work of County Agent N. K. Rowell. Dr. Tedder is making his headquarters in the Makely Apartment and can be reached by telephoning No. 89.

The new veterinarian, one of four put in the field by the Department of Agriculture, has all of the Albemarle counties under his jurisdiction and while primarily interested in the control of diseases among swine, he can also be secured for other veterinary services, although for the latter there will be a nominal charge.

Colerain And Local Girls Meet In Soft Ball Game Tonight

Soft ball fans will have another opportunity to witness another girls' soft ball game tonight (Thursday) when the Colerain team will again tackle the Edenton girls under the Edenton flood lights. The game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

The Edenton girls have twice defeated the girls from across the river, but reports are to the effect that a considerably improved team will be here tonight which should result in a hotly contested game. The two teams played at Colerain Wednesday afternoon, but the result could not be learned when The Herald went to press.
