Flies And Wells Aid In Spreading Two Common Diseases

Much Dysentery Prevails In County LESS TYPHOID Safe, According to Health Officer

"May and June are the months of most frequent incidence of dysentery and typhoid fever," says Dr. F. H. Garriss, health officer for the Bertie-Chowan health district, who also warns that open wells and flies are our two most dangerous sources and carriers of these two diseases.

Commenting upon these two diseases, Dr. Garriss says:

"Flies get infection from open privies and other types of open or unprotected filth and carry it to our kitchens, etc. Open wells become infected from yard or surface drainage, from the hands of persons drawing water, and from wash water spilled back into the well. Of course, we all know that the first source of the germ of infection of these two diseases is from human or animal intestines. Also we all know that we do not care to eat or drink anything that comes from the contents of human or animal intestines. But that is exactly what we do when we eat things that flies have crawled upon or when we drink raw water from an daughter, Lois, of near Sign Pine, open well.

"The prevention of these two diseases, from a sanitary standpoint, is to keep what we eat and drink and our eating utensils protected from flies and do not drink raw water from open wells. It seems that the flies, like the poor, have always been with us and unless rigid and strict cleanup sanitation is applied and kept in force, will always be with us. Therefore, our personal protection is effective screening. Incidentally, this screening will also protect us against malaria.

The protection against open well water can be effected by boiling same before it is consumed. Boiled water can be put in jugs and jars and shaken or agitated to reincorporate the air into it that has been expelled by boiling, and then it will be as palatable as though it had not been boiled. Owing to the fact that open well water can be boiled and made safe is no excuse for using it because the Town of Edenton has a good and safe supply of water that is available to all inhabitants of the town. Driven pump water, which is safe, can be secured, open wells can be curbed with terra cotta, tops sealed with concrete slabs and the water drawn by means of a pump, all of which will make an open well as safe as a driven pump.

"There are in the Town of Edenton. as we have estimated, over 50 of these open wells that are potential health nuisances, all of which should be condemned. Of course, we do not have the typhoid fever that we once had because of vaccination but we are having, every year, too much dysentery among adults and babies and especially among the latter, and, as stated above, open wells and flies are the chief causes of these two diseases."
