

Poultry School To Be Held At Cross Roads February 2

Overman Reports Upon Activities Throughout County

Christmas meetings were held with each of the eight 4-H Clubs. In the November meetings the club members drew names to bring a 10c gift. The gifts were brought to the meetings this week.

The club members selected a Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus from their larger members and their smallest member was selected as Little Santa Claus. Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus presented the gifts and served refreshments.

Advance Club had a dandy little Christmas playlet prepared and presented same at their meeting.

In order to inform cotton farmers in regard to peanut marketing quotas and the election held on Saturday, December 13, four meetings were held over the county. Approximately 27 farmers attended these meetings.

Chowan County had approximately 816 cotton farmers eligible to vote in the referendum; 379 yes votes and 1 no vote were cast.

A demonstration on fertilizing winter legumes was started by Sidney White. In this demonstration Mr.

White plans to demonstrate the value of fertilizing Vetch to be turned for corn next spring vs Vetch alone turned and some fertilizer applied under corn next spring vs no Vetch and corn fertilized, according to old method.

Rudolph Jordan, of Tyner, is experiencing considerable difficulty in his laying flock by having insufficient housing room and lack of proper housing. Mr. Jordan has about 600 layers housed in space sufficient for 400. The flock is being culled to fit the housing space, but the loss of around 200 promising layers and the handicap by crowding of others has caused a considerable loss in production. Mr. Jordan is learning by the hard method, that proper housing and space is very, very important for the laying flock.

With the assistance of T. T. Brown and the other members of the State Extension Poultry Department, plans have been made to hold a poultry school for this district at Cross Roads on February 2, 1942.

'The Messiah' Heard At Williamston On Sunday

Several Edentonians went to Williamston Sunday afternoon to hear Handel's "The Messiah," which was presented by the North Carolina Choral Symphony, conducted by Lewis Sidney Bullock. The chorus is composed of 234 members with competent accompanists and soloists.

"The Messiah" was presented in Edenton several years ago and was thoroughly enjoyed by a capacity house at the school auditorium.
