

Cordon Speaker At Meeting Of Rotary

Meeting Thursday Postponed Due to Thanksgiving Holiday

Today (Thursday) being Thanksgiving Day, there will be no meeting of the Edenton Rotary Club, according to R. F. Elliott, president of the club.

At last week's meeting Norman Cordon, Metropolitan Opera baritone, who presented a concert Thursday night in the local high school, was the principal speaker. Mr. Cordon, a guest of Dr. Frank Wood, said that although he has traveled extensively throughout North and South America, it was good to get back home. A native North Carolinian, born in Beaufort County, Mr. Cordon said he has a warm spot in his heart for all of North Carolina.

During his remarks Mr. Cordon said that to become a singer requires just as much hard work and patience as a doctor or lawyer experiences on his way up the ladder of success. A good voice, he said, is only one of the requirements of a singer, so that fond mothers, grandmothers and aunts are sometimes mistaken when they think a daughter, granddaughter or niece is material for grand opera or other top-notch musical attainments.

Mr. Cordon first started on his musical career as a soloist in the University of North Carolina Glee Club, where he was a student. He came to Edenton while on his way to the Carolina-Duke football game at the invitation of Dr. Frank Wood, a long-time friend.

Like Kay Kyser, Mr. Cordon said he is interested in hospitalization in North Carolina and for that reason offered his services free, so that all of the proceeds of his concert went to the Chowan Hospital. Mr. Cordon was a very entertaining speaker and his remarks thoroughly enjoyed by the Rotarians present.

Before Mr. Cordon spoke, President R. F. Elliott called upon each one present to stand with bowed heads in a minute of silence in respect for the late John A. Moore, a valuable member of the club.

Next week's program will be in charge of J. Edwin Bufflap.
