100 Turkey Growers In Chowan County

Over 8,000 Turkeys Produced Annually For Market

According to a recent survey made by County Agent C. W. Overman, Chowan County has approximately 100 turkey growers, who produce over 8,000 turkeys for market annually. Twenty-seven of these growers produce 100 or more turkeys each, with 800 being the largest flock. Practically all of their turkeys are of the broad-breasted bronze breed, though several growers are having difficulty in getting bronze poulters for this year's production. A few growers will possibly try Beltsville whites since they cannot get bronze poulters.

Lee W. Herrick, Extension turkey specialist from N. C. State College spent Wednesday of last week in the county on turkey work with Mr. Overman. They visited 15 growers to observe housing and poults. Several growers are overcrowding their houses and not providing at least one square foot of floor space per poult. Some houses had insufficient ventilation and some did not have sun porches. Suggestions were made to the growers for adequate improvements.

Each was given a copy of the Extension circular, "Poult Brooding." Others may obtain copies by contacting the county agent.
