

School Kids To Visit N. C. State Fair Free

400,000 Free Passes Are Sent to County School Superintendents

Thousands of North Carolina school children will be special guests of the State Fair on two days set aside for them during fair week, October 19-23, Manager J. S. Dorton has announced.

In addition to receiving free admittance at the fair grounds gates, the children will get reduced rates for rides and shows.

Dorton is mailing 400,000 free passes this week to county school superintendents in counties which customarily send big flocks of children to the State Fair. The tickets will be allocated to the various schools for distribution to the pupils. Dorton explained he was not sending tickets to distant counties because usually they are not used. However, he said any school superintendent not receiving passes for pupils can get them, if he so desires, by sending a written request to the fair manager.

Tuesday, opening day of the big fair has been designated as Wake County School Children's Day. All Wake County school children presenting their passes will be admitted to the grounds without charge. A similar arrangement will prevail for all North Carolina school children on Friday, October 22.

Dorton said he hopes a record number of school children will take advantage of the special days designated for them.

Dr. Robert Lee Humber Speaker Sunday Night

(Continued From Page One) whose principles and objectives were embodied in a resolution that has been passed by 15 Legislatures of the Union and is now pending in more than 12 others. North Carolina, in 1941, became the first state in history to endorse the principle of World Federation. In 1948 Dr. Humber was awarded the World Government News Medal as the individual who had contributed most to the advancement of World Federation during that year. Now serving as vice president and member of the National Executive Committee of United World Federalists, Dr. Humber is also vice president of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association and a member of the board of trustees of Meredith College.

In accepting an invitation to deliver the second in the series of addresses on "The Church and the Contemporary Crisis," Dr. Humber said, "I hope . . . that it (the series) will help crystallize not only public opinion but a deep sense of obligation on the part of the Church to make secure—once and for all time—the heritage of the race that is founded on Christian culture. The crisis of our time has indeed such far-reaching and significant consequences."

Miss Rebecca Colwell, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Edenton, has announced that the members of the club will attend the address of Dr. Humber as a group. The local club is associated with the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Incorporated, and is joining in the nation-wide celebration of Business and Professional Women's Week October 10-17.

The pastor of the sponsoring church, the Rev. W. L. Freeman, stated that he considered the community fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing Dr. Humber, whom he regards as "one of the great minds that the State of North Carolina has produced. His devotion to the work of his own denomination and his dedication to the task of helping to build a stable and secure world are deserving of the highest commendation."
