

Time Running Out For E, F, G Drivers To Be Examined

Any Caught Driving After January 1 Subject To Arrest

The time is fast running out for E, F and G drivers, the Motor Vehicle Department has announced. All drivers with last names beginning with either E, F or G are required to take an examination for a new driver's license by December 31, as a part of the Highway Safety Act passed by the 1947 General Assembly. The Department reported that this group of drivers had been very slow to report, and that if they procrastinated much longer, it would mean that they would have to wait in long lines to take their tests during the last few days of December.

Department officials also announced that the 100 examining stations located throughout the State would be closed several days around Christmas, and that motorists who put off their tests might find it impossible to get them later.

There will be absolutely no extension to the deadline, the Department said, for E, F and G motorists have had since last July to get these examinations.

Beginning January 1, 1949, persons with last names beginning with H, I, J and K will begin taking their tests. Taking drivers, in alphabetical groups, the re-examination program will be completed June 30, 1951.

The Department reported that any E, F or G driver caught driving on an old license after January 1 will be found guilty of a misdemeanor and will be subject to a fine of not less than $25 or 30 days imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Farmers Warned About Butchering

Urged to Take Precautions Against Erysipelas Among Swine

Farmers butchering hogs this winter are warned to take special precautions to protect themselves against swine erysipelas if the disease is known to exist on their farms.

"On farms where swine erysipelas is a problem, the danger of infection should not be overlooked at butchering time," the American Foundation for Animal Health reported. "In human beings, swine erysipelas germs cause a disease called erysipeloid, characterized by painful skin lesions and other complications.

"The germ enters the system chiefly through breaks and bruises in the skin.

"Therefore, if erysipelas has been or may be present in the herd, the handler should protect his hands and arms by washing and disinfecting them thoroughly after each animal is butchered."

The danger of human infection was cited as just an added reason for farmers to watch their swine for symptoms of erysipelas and to combat it promptly if it appears.

"Symptoms of this disease in swine include scaly, dry, reddened skin; sloughing off of pieces of the ears and tail; swollen joints and snouts, lethargy and a high temperature," the American Foundation said.

"Unless the trouble is diagnosed promptly, and infected animals isolated, it may run quickly through a herd, killing many hogs and making others unprofitable for market. Moreover, swine erysipelas may also infect other types of livestock and poultry."

COTTON ADVANCES

Cotton prices advanced around 3.00 per bale during last week as export market activity and mill buying increased. Middling 15/16 inch cotton averaged 32.22 cents per pound on Friday, December 3, as compared with 31.62 a week earlier and 35.71 a year ago.

Pecan Girdlers Doing Damage In Chowan

Infestation of pecan girdlers seems to be much heavier than usual this fall, judging by the large number of detached branches being found under the trees, according to County Agent C. W. Overman.

Owners of pecan trees have been advised to pick up and burn these branches as fast as they fall in an effort to destroy the eggs which have been laid in the branches. Chowan County's crop of pecans is quite varied. Some trees are making good yields while others are making little or none.
