

No Change Effectuated In Soil Conservation Group For Chowan

Joe A. Webb, Jr., Winner In Last Week's Voting

The annual election for choosing the members of the Chowan County Soil Conservation Supervisor's Committee was held last week, reports Lloyd C. Bunch, present chairman of the Chowan committee. Mr. Bunch states that according to the results of the election no change will be effected in the Chowan committee membership. Joe A. Webb, Jr., of the Yeopim community, who is serving a one-year term which would have expired on January 1, 1949, was reelected for a period of three years. R. H. Hollowell of the Small's Cross Roads community is the other member of the Chowan committee. According to the committee chairman, there were two candidates in last week's election, the other candidates being John N. Bunch of the Yeopim community. The election was conducted according to the requirements of the Soil Conservation District's Law of North Carolina. Mr. Bunch announces that the new committee will have its first meeting as soon as possible after January 1, 1949. The chairman of the Chowan County committee will automatically become a member of the Albemarle Soil Conservation District Supervisor's committee. Lloyd C. Bunch is also chairman of this committee at the present time. Other counties composing the Albemarle Soil Conservation District are Camden, Currituck, Pasquotank and Perquimans.

The Albemarle Soil Conservation District is responsible for the soil conservation program in these five counties. Under a memorandum of understanding with the Soil Conservation Service farm planning technicians are furnished to assist farmers in these counties with their soil conservation problems. The actual soil conservation work is accomplished through soil conservation farm plans. Mr. Bunch urges farmers to seek the assistance which is being offered them through the facilities of the Albemarle District. He states that in the past year many farmers have been assisted through their farm plans in the application of such practices as group drainage projects, individual farm and field drainage, wind and water erosion control, permanent pasture seedings, wildlife area improvement, forests improvement and protection, crop rotations, and protective winter cover plantings. In the opinion of Mr. Bunch, fine work has been done in all of the five counties this year. He feels that the accomplishments of this program have been largely due to the efforts of the representatives of the Soil Conservation Service cooperating with the Albemarle District and to the assistance and cooperation of the Production Marketing Administration and the N. C. Extension Service.

The district chairman expresses the hope that these accomplishments in Soil Conservation will continue on an even wider scale in 1949.

Woman In Hungary Appeals For Help

Writes Letter to Mrs. Annie Granby This Week

Mrs. Annie Granby this week received a letter from a lady in Debrecen, Hungary, appealing for help. Though no previous correspondence has been held between the two, the recipient is puzzled as to how her name and address was secured, unless it was through her local activities with the Red Cross.

The letter follows: "Dear Madame, Forgive me disturbing you with my letter, but the bad circumstances forced me to appeal to the charity of an American, whose good heart so many times I notified by friends, who were so lucky to have some relation in America. Sorry to say that I have nobody out there, and when by chance I got your address, I took it as a sign of fate to tell you about my hard life, and appeal to your benevolent heart.

"I am 74 years old, widow of the medical General Janos Sauerwald. During the war I was turned out of my home, and lost everything. I got a little pension of the Government but this is hardly enough for food, to buy a warm dress or a thick shoe for the winter, it is impossible. And as I am too weak and old to do any other work to earn some money, I am in a great want.

"It is the first time in my life that I ask the help of unknown people, and to do this first step was not easy for me, but I suffered so much last time, and as I could not find any other way out of my distress, therefore, I am asking for your help. Anything you could spare would be a great help for me.

Thank you very much for your help, and excuse me for my letter. Yours ever sincerely, "Mrs. J. Sauerwald."

(Correction: The game with Bethel will be played at Bethel and not at Edenton, as stated last week in this column.) The girls on the basketball team this year are: Margaret (Butch) Mansfield, Patsy Taylor, Charlotte Leary, Marion Harrell, Carolyn White and Laura Skinner. The substitutes are Phyllis Comer, Jane Spry, Bessie Tynch, Glenn Twiddy, Marietta Perry, Dorothy Heninger, Lillian Leary and Peggy Williams. The boys that are out for basketball are Jack Habit, Al Habit, Russell Wheeler, Paulette Lane, Earl Goodwin, Malcolm Eason, Emmitt Eason, Jimmy Earnhardt, Oscar Griffin, Ernest White, Charles Overman, Murrell Layton, Webb Griffin and Donald Batton. Mr. Thompson has not chosen the team yet.

The Student Council president, Aubrey Harrell, won a trip to Chicago for having the most peanuts per acre. He stayed in Chicago for a week. The president appointed a committee to make some arm bands or pins for hall captains so they can be identified. Mary Ann Elliott and Peggy Williams are on this committee. The rules and regulations committee has set up a set of laws which will be used to punish students who are disorderly in the halls. The person convicted of any disorderly crime may have an attorney to plead his case if he thinks he is innocent.

Friday morning Mr. Holmes gave a very interesting talk about the school and the first football games that Edenton ever had. After the talk everyone sang Christmas Carols. School will be dismissed for two weeks for the Christmas holidays.

Comdr. Von Keller Speaker At Rotary

At the Edenton Rotary Club's meeting Commander Von Keller, U. S. Navy officer in charge of restoring the Edenton Naval Air Station for reactivation, was the principal speaker. Mr. Von Keller spoke briefly relative to his duties at the base, where a considerable amount of work is necessary to put it in condition for occupancy.

The speaker, who was introduced by C. M. Speight, said he was very favorably impressed with the hospitality and cooperation on the part of Edenton people and expressed a desire to be of service whenever needed.

SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY

D. B. Liles was agreeably surprised Sunday when a group of relatives from Virginia came unexpectedly to his home to celebrate his 80th birthday, which was on Monday.

The group brought with them a sumptuous dinner, including turkey and all the accessories, together with a birthday cake decorated with candles. The occasion was very delightful and Mr. Liles was visibly affected by the surprise.
