

Burton Jones Saves Man From Drowning

Herbert Hoover Bazemore Attempts to End His Life Friday

Due to the efforts of Burton Jones, an Eagle Scout, a Negro was saved from drowning near the Edenton Bay Packing Company Friday afternoon. Young Jones, after hearing the Negro floundering in the water, saw him go under. He jumped into the water and found the Negro on the bottom. Upon being brought to shore the Negro soon was revived.

Herbert Hoover Bazemore, the Negro, was being questioned in the police station and asked permission to use the toilet. The request was granted, but the Negro headed for the water and jumped in as the police were considering the case. Mrs. A. M. Day reported to the police that a man was overboard.

According to Chief of Police R. L. Pratt, Bazemore admitted he had robbed Elliott Cleaners about two years ago and that he was implicated in several other robberies. The Negro said he wanted to get right his Lord.

He was taken back to Windsor, his home, for further investigation regarding the alleged Windsor robberies.

Bill Herman Released By Manager Parker

Bill Herman, popular member of the Colonials' pitching staff for two seasons, was released Wednesday of last week by Manager Gashouse Parker. Herman was immediately signed by the Elizabeth City Senators.

The release of Herman, according to reports, followed a misunderstanding during the Colonials-Senators game which was played in Elizabeth City.

HEALTH IS WHERE YOU LIVE

HEALTH IS WHERE YOU LIVE

By K. J. Eyer, Sanitarian

Where is public health and by whom is it administered? To whom are its benefits available? Public Health is right where you are and it is administered by your local health officer and his staff. Its benefits are available to you and to the members of your family, whether you are a white man, a Negro, an Indian, or a member of some other race. These benefits are yours, regardless of your educational qualifications, or how much money you have or are capable of earning, or what your religious affiliations happen to be, or what boat your ancestors came to America on.

You are a part of public health, and, as such, you are entitled to all that it has to offer. The only question is: Are you acquainted with these benefits, and are you willing to accept them, for your own protection and the mass protection of the community in which you live?

Let us consider, briefly, the services to you that you have a right to expect of your local health department:

Your local health department is charged with the responsibility of communicable disease control, including epidemiological and immunization service, for your protection against preventable illnesses, including diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough and other maladies for which preventives have been developed. In this important undertaking, however, it is necessary that your health department have your support, to make its program of prevention successful.

Another duty of your local health department is to exercise general disease control, by proper investigations and the promotion of serological tests.

X-ray service is available and certainly should not be overlooked. You hear much these days about vital statistics, including the registration of births and deaths. Responsibility for the thoroughness of this service to the people rests with your local health department, plus your cooperation.

Sanitation is another important public health function, and this includes, among many other things, adequate inspection and grading of public eating places that you patronize. It also includes the inspection of milk, which is the most important food consumed by the human race, from the cradle to the grave.

The local health department—which is a part of you and your community set up—is charged with many other responsibilities, including protection and promotion of health of school children, maternal and child hygiene, oral hygiene and other services, to which you are entitled—health education and general health promotion.

Where is public health? You ask. Is it in Washington? Is it in Raleigh? Yes, in a measure, because it ties in very vitally with the United States Public Health Service and the State Board of Health. In North Carolina—as in other States—the State Health Department is the reserve center for ideas, financial support, educational and technical information, but its ultimate application is in the county, the neighborhood, in which you live and work.

Frequent Marketing Of Eggs Suggested

When adequate storage facilities are lacking, eggs should be marketed at least two or three times a week to hold their quality in hot weather, farmers were advised this week by Harry Wise of Atlanta, poultry marketing specialist for the Production and Marketing Administration.

High temperatures and lack of moisture are enemies of egg quality, Wise said, and extra care in handling is necessary if the farmer is to market summer eggs successfully.

Wise pointed out that the sooner eggs can be taken to receiving stations after they have been gathered properly cooled, and packed in cartons or cases, the better the quality will be when they reach retail markets.

He offered these other marketing suggestions: Proper packing offers another opportunity to reduce quality losses in hot weather. Eggs should be thoroughly cooled before they are packed, as properly cooled eggs help maintain constant temperature within the cases. On the other hand, he explained, even a few relatively warm eggs can raise the temperature of the entire case high enough to cause a loss of quality.

To protect eggs enroute to market against the summer heat, Wise suggested covering cooled egg cases with a tarpaulin. This will help hold the temperature low and will protect the eggs from the direct rays of the sun until delivery, he said.
