THIS WEEK'S BIBLE THOUGHT

IT WILL WITHSTAND ALL SHOCK: The word of the Lord endureth forever.—I Peter 1:25.

Merry Christmas!

Once again the happy Christmas season is here when, more than any other time in the year, people are happy and possessed with a more friendly attitude one toward another. Regardless of how badly we may have fared during the year, regardless of whatever sorrow we have had to bear and whatever setbacks we encountered, one outstanding event should keep our spirit up and our memories happier—Christmas.

Of course, there will be some Scrooges who will say the beautiful words "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men," "God bless you one and all," and "Love thy neighbor" are just empty words, words that are used only at Christmas time and then forgotten for the rest of the year.

But what of it, and even if it is so, thank God for the one wonderful week when the Christmas spirit pervades and every one of us, even the Scrooges, cannot but be affected by the contagious Christmas spirit.

Some of us may have had what seems to be more than our share of the burdens to bear. But one only needs to look around a little to find someone else who, after all, is even more unfortunate.

May we all "Love our neighbor," let us have "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men," even if only a week or two. To that end The Herald wishes for all its readers a very Merry Christmas and a most prosperous New Year.

HEARD & SEEN

By "BUFF"

Having arrived home Sunday from attending my father's funeral in Pennsylvania, I want to hasten to thank my and our friends for the many beautiful floral tributes sent to the funeral, as well as for cards and personal sympathy extended to me. To say the least, near relatives were comforted by the fact that he had won so many friends during his brief stay in Edenton. I, more than anyone else, will miss him, for he was a constant companion since coming to Edenton to live. But, while missing him, there is no little consolation in knowing that he was perfectly happy and enjoyed living in Edenton during the latter days of his span of 82 years allotted him.

While in Pennsylvania I experienced no little embarrassment. Having been away for over a quarter of a century, and visiting occasionally only briefly, I lost track of many of my relatives. It was rather embarrassing for a Bufflap to be introduced to a Bufflap, or for an aunt, uncle or cousin to say, "Why, Edwin, don't you remember me?"

It happened, yes, it has happened, and at a time when I could not be present. Major Bill Lucius made that speech of his at the Rotary Club's Christmas party Thursday night. I knew it would happen some time or other. I haven't heard much about the speech other than that it was rather long, and that's why I wanted to be present when he made it—so I could yank on his coat tail to get him down. Anyway, he did a good deed, for he pinch-hit for the guest speaker, who failed to show up. The only trouble is that the Major paid for his meal before he was called upon to speak. I make a motion the Rotary Club refunds him the price of the meal, for then I'll owe him only two more meals for causing his speech-making to be cancelled.

My friend, William P. Field, dropped in to see me the other day while enroute from his home in Hector, N. Y., to Florida to spend the winter. Last year he spilled off a short poem, and again this time he had another one. Here 'tis:

There was a man named Fisher,
Who fished for fish through a fissure,
The fish with a grin pulled the fisherman in—
Now they're fishing the fissure for Fisher.
