GRAHAM'S FOES CALL TO THEIR AID A NOTORIOUS DEFAMER
The Chapel Hill Weekly.

It is a sorry business indeed that the opponents of Senator Graham are engaged in when, for the purpose of influencing the voters, they circulate slanderous statements about him by the notorious defamer John T. Flynn. The statements are contained in Flynn's book, "The Road Ahead," which pillories, along with Graham, some of the most highly respected men in the country. Thousands of copies of this book have recently been spread around North Carolina. Stacks of them—paid for by whom?—have appeared in offices, business houses, and other places.

The people who have resorted to this evil form of campaigning were recently so successful in worming their way into the confidence of leaders of the Daughters of the American Revolution that the State D.A.R. convention in Charlotte adopted a resolution calling upon every chapter to make the book a subject of special study. Which, of course, was equivalent to endorsing it. I know of one chapter meeting at which some of the members protested against the resolution, declaring that they did not intend to be hoodwinked into spreading anti-Graham propaganda. I hope there will be enough of such wide-awake members of the D.A.R. to make this same thing happen at other chapter meetings.

Ten years ago, when the Nazis were beginning to overrun Europe, Flynn was denouncing the William Allen White committee and other organizations that sought to help the Allies against Hitler. He wrote articles for "Scribner's Commentator," a pro-German periodical. He opposed the Lend-Lease law, which was one of the important moves against Hitler. He said that Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Knox should be driven out of President Roosevelt's cabinet. The organ of the German-American Bund proclaimed Flynn "a courageous man," and the Coughlinites organ praised him as "a veteran American crusader." Before the war was over Flynn published a pamphlet which pictured Japan as a nation pleading for peace and placed the blame for Pearl Harbor on the leaders of the Government. Before and after this country's entrance into the war Flynn was the constantly extolled darling of the elements in America that opposed American action against Hitler.

It is a disgraceful act for North Carolinians to be circulating a book by a man with Flynn's record in the effort to persuade North Carolinians to distrust Frank Graham; and it is no credit to Willis Smith that he is attacking Graham with the same sort of misleading statements that are made by Flynn.

In contrast, observe the record, published this week by the Wake County Committee for Graham, of the praise given to the Senator by six persons far different from Flynn. These persons are General George C. Marshall, Senator Clyde R. Hoey, Senator Wayne Morse, Senator Charles Tobey, Mrs. W. T. Bost, and Mrs. O. Max Gardner. "The work Frank Graham did in Indonesia for the United Nations was a diplomatic miracle," said General Marshall. And Senator Tobey said: "Frank Graham's speech on the Atlantic Pact was the greatest I have ever heard in the United States Senate." In these two quotations we have a fair reflection of the esteem in which Graham is held by the nation's most trusted leaders.

Will Speight Bond In "Exercise Swarmer"

Sgt. Will Speight Bond, son of Mrs. H. C. Jenkins, is among approximately 4,000 troops of V Corps and its attached units participating in the biggest air-ground maneuver in history—"Exercise Swarmer."

"Swarmer," commanded by Lt. Gen. Lauris Norstad of the U. S. Air Force, is planned on a major scale and its scope is well in advance of anything hitherto attempted in war or peace. Total personnel engaging in the maneuver will approach 60,000 including men from every state in the Union.

The object is to test the feasibility of flying men and equipment into the center of enemy held territory, keeping them supplied solely by air lift. The enemy in this case will be an "Aggressor" force, which theoretically has invaded the coasts of North Carolina and Florida.

V Corps, regularly commanded by Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, will be led in this unprecedented maneuver by Major General P. W. Clarkson, commanding general of the Third Infantry Division. Gen. Hodge will command the Task Force.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Tuttle Harrell announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marian Leary Harrell, to Thomas Collins Cross, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Cross.

The wedding will take place on Sunday afternoon, July 2, at 5 o'clock in the Rocky Hock Baptist Church.
