

Veterans' Widows Entitled To Pension

Those Who Are Eligible Urged to Contact J. L. Wiggins

Widows of veterans of World War I whose income is $1,000 a year or less are entitled to a pension of $42 a month from the Federal Government, Stephen H. Alford, District Service Officer of the North Carolina Veterans Commission points out.

Those with children under certain ages are entitled to extra compensation provided their income is not over $2,500 a year.

Service by the veterans must have been between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, and discharge or release from active duty must have been under other than dishonorable conditions after 90 days or more of military service.

For the purposes of a pension a widow must have been married to a World War I veteran before December 14, 1944, or 10 or more years to the person who served, and must not have remarried.

Applicants are urged to contact J. L. Wiggins, Chowan County Service Officer, Edenton or the District Office of the North Carolina Veterans Commission, 206 Kramer Building, Elizabeth City, for assistance and advice on all pension benefits.

Fannie Badham Named 'Negro Woman Of Year'

Guests presented were Dr. Bessie B. Small, Denton, Maryland, daughter of the "Woman of the Year" and Mrs. Mary Sill, Ahoskie, a friend. Their greetings were impressive and timely.

Mrs. Badham was presented and her talk was one of the high spots of the program.

Besides the gifts and cards sent by friends of both races, special awards presented consisted of the Woman's Club awards, flowers presented by Mrs. S. N. Griffith and a pin, presented by Mrs. W. E. Cox.

Miss E. E. Foreman presented the "Unusual Candle" (a candle wrapped with gifts of 5, 10 and 1 dollar bills) donated by club members and friends. The Douglass Literary and Social Club award was presented by Mrs. L. J. McRae, the Order of Eastern Star award was given by Mrs. Bettie Capehart. A floral tribute from Kadesah A. M. E. Zion Church was presented by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Stringfield.

As a teacher for 65 years and 54 years in Edenton, Mrs. Badham has lighted many candles in educational and religious realms. The program closed with an impressive candlelight service symbolic of her life. The script for this service was prepared and read by Mrs. E. L. Byrd.

Mrs. Badham was born in Edenton. She has the distinction of being the oldest active alumni of Shaw University. She was salutatorian and secretary of the class of 1894. After teaching in Apex, for two years, she served as teacher and principal for more than 30 years prior to 1932. Since that time she has been a member of the Edenton High School faculty.

She has been prominent in fraternal orders, having been the Grand Matron of the State of North Carolina, order of Eastern Star for eight years and Grand Treasurer for five years.

Locally she is a member of the Douglass Literary and Social Club, secretary of the PTA and the faculty and a member of the choir of the Gale Street Baptist Church.

She is the mother of Miles Badham of New York City, and Dr. Bessie B. Small of Denton, Maryland. She has three granddaughters, Misses Sylvia and Shelba Small, Temple University, Philadelphia and Miss Elnora Badham of State Teachers College, Elizabeth City.

Fresh Vegetables Top List Of Foods

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, announcing its plentiful foods list for July, called the attention of shoppers to the wide variety of fresh and processed foods abundant on Southern markets, the local county and home demonstration agent for the State College Extension Service, said this week.

Fresh vegetables listed for July, she said, include carrots, onions, Irish potatoes, fresh corn, snap beans, beets, cabbage, lettuce, and tomatoes.

The watermelon and cantaloupe season in the South will be in full swing in July and picnic planners can count on heavy supplies all during the month, the county agent said.

Broilers and fryers are still in the plentiful class, as are dairy products, hens, eggs, peanut butter, fresh and frozen fish, and rice.

Local availability of the foods on the July plentiful list may vary from area to area because of transportation and buying preferences, but most markets in the South, the home agent pointed out, will have abundant supplies of the listed foods.

Shoppers who buy seasonally plentiful foods will, as a rule, find them the most economical buys, he added.

Peanut Growers Urged To Dust For Leafspot

Howard R. Garriss, extension plant pathologist at State College, this week advised Tar Heel peanut growers to get ready to begin dusting their crop for control of leafspot disease.

The first application of dust, Garriss said, should be made not later than July 10, at the rate of 18 to 20 pounds per acre. Treatment should be continued at two-week intervals for a total of three applications if weather conditions are moderately wet to dry. However, a total of four applications should be made if the weather is unseasonably wet.

A sulfur-copper dust mixture containing 4 per cent metallic copper is recommended. Tests conducted last year in Bertie, Chowan, Gates and Hertford Counties showed this material to be superior to sulfur dust alone.

In 11 demonstrations, sulfur alone gave an increase of 209 pounds of nuts per acre over untreated plots, while copper-sulfur gave an increase of 473 pounds per acre. At an average price of 10 cents per pound for nuts, and after subtracting $1.60 per acre for sulfur dust and $3 per acre for copper-sulfur dust, growers who used sulfur increased their profits by $19.30 per acre and those who used copper-sulfur increased their profits by $44.40 per acre.

In addition, dusting for control of leafspot improved both the yield and quality of the hay sufficiently to cover the cost of the treatment.

Garriss said tests by a peanut products manufacturer last year failed to reveal significant differences in the general quality of nuts for processing, regardless of whether the nuts came from copper-sulfur, sulfur, or undusted plots.
