BY TRUCK

Today your fruits, vegetables, and dairy products bring a "premium price" because trucks deliver them overnight, country fresh, to big city markets.

Many North Carolina communities are growing entirely new crops because of the modern, field-to-city transportation. Our huge strawberry and peach crops are a direct result of truck service.

Trucks not only speed your crops to market. They deliver what you need, where and when you need it. Trucks deliver to your door almost anything that is made or grown anywhere in the world—so economically that one-time luxuries become today's necessities.

North Carolina farmers are strong for the motor carrier. They know it has brought them extra conveniences, larger incomes, and better living.

Without it, more than 1,800 North Carolina communities would be without any kind of commercial transportation.

With it, every Tar Heel farm is on the Main Line!
