

Doc Murphey Signs Up With Colonials

Popular Third Sacker Played In Game Friday at Emporia

Willis "Doc" Murphey, former third baseman for the Edenton Colonials in the Albemarle League, has again signed with the Colonials, this year a member of the Virginia League. Murphey played his first game with the Colonials at Emporia Friday night, when the Colonials won 9-2.

Murphey is, no doubt, one of the most popular players ever to don an Edenton uniform, and his signing will bolster the morale not only of the team but fans as well. He will appear regularly on the Edenton lineup after graduation exercises at Wake Forest College.

The popular third baseman covered the hot corner for the Wake Forest Deacons this season and so improved in his hitting that he was put in the cleanup position. His acquisition in the Edenton lineup is expected to strengthen the team in every department.

It was also reported that Cotton Bagwell, an infielder with Petersburg last year, has been signed up with the Colonials, as well as Sam Mauney, a catcher, who hails from Taona, Va. Wadere Shahid, a righthanded pitcher, is also expected to report to play with the local outfit.

Garden Time

By ROBERT SCHMIDT

About two months ago I commented in this column about the use of hotcaps for the protection of warm season crops such as cucumbers and melon for those crops. Early in April one of my State College classes in vegetable crops planted water melons before the safe planting period at the Horticultural Farm. Every other hill was covered with a plastic hotcap as soon as planted. At that time it did not appear as though we would have much contrast between the protected and the unprotected hills. The weather was warm and the unprotected hills came up almost as soon as those under caps. However, the past two weeks the weather has been cool—especially at night. We have left the caps on for that reason.

As of today, the unprotected plants have made little growth because of the cool weather, while the plants under the caps have made nice growth and are much larger. Also, the cucumber beetles are beginning to attack the unprotected plants. Whether or not the early advantage of the protected plants will continue throughout the season will have to be answered later. For the benefit of the housewife who likes to grow iris, I would like to pass on the information that bearded iris may be divided and transplanted as soon as they are through blooming. New, healthy rhizomes should be selected and transplanted so that the top of the rhizome is about level with the surface of the soil. The foliage may be clipped back about one-third to one-half. Iris should be divided at least every three years. A location with full sun is best.

Chowan Hospital Auxiliary Meets

Splendid Reports Submitted By Various Committees

The regular meeting of the Chowan Hospital Auxiliary was held on Wednesday, May 16, in the Nurses' Home, with Mrs. J. Clarence Leary, Jr., presiding. Splendid reports were made by the regular standing committees.

Mrs. W. E. Spitzer, wards chairman, reported that the Ann Bagley Circle of the Baptist Church took care of the flowers during April, and that the Junior Woman's Club offered their Flower Show bouquets for hospital use. Mrs. Daniel Reeves made most attractive tray favors for Easter. Copies of daily newspapers have been subscribed to for the patients. Mrs. Spitzer urged that magazines be carried to the hospital or left at the local drug stores.

Mrs. L. A. Patterson, sewing chairman, said that 42 dresser scarfs were made in time for Open House, and that 12 hospital gowns and sheets had been mended.

Miss Rebecca Colwell thanked Mrs. W. A. Graham for the gift of several Magnolia trees that have been heeled up until time to transplant in the fall to the hospital grounds.

Mrs. Rodney Harrell reported 281 members of the Auxiliary to date.

During the past two months Mrs. Marvin Wilson has directed a daily personal shopping service for the patients. A donation from the Auxiliary of a brick barbecue grill with cypress table and benches for the Nurses' Grounds, is now under construction.

Also a generous sum was voted toward the beautiful curtains, made by Coper's of Norfolk, Va., that will complete the decoration of the lounge, sitting room, and bedrooms in the Nurses' Home.

On May 12, in observance of National Hospital Week, Mrs. W. I. Hart and Mrs. J. E. Debnam arranged the special features. Free laboratory blood tests were given to about sixty visitors and a free chest X-ray to several persons.

After the business session, Mrs. Charles Wales, Sr., gave a delightful paper on Chowan County's historic Court House.
