Folder Is Published On Worming Hogs

Sodium fluoride is a simple and safe drug to use in controlling large intestinal round worms in swine, according to a new folder just published by the State College Extension Service.

The authors, J. Clark Osborne and Jack Kelley, point out that wormy pigs are unthrifty and unprofitable. They make slow, stunted growth and make very poor use of the feed they are given.

"Hogs of any age must be wormed with sodium fluoride," say the authors. "It is generally agreed that the best age to worm is at about two weeks after weaning. Additional worming is not usually necessary unless the hogs show definite signs of being infested. Sows in the latter part of the gestation period should not be wormed."

Osborne and Kelley advise producers to use the commercial or technical grade of the drug. It can be obtained through local veterinarians or most drug stores.

Since sodium fluoride is very poisonous, it should be used with caution and directions should be followed carefully, say the specialists.

The new publication, "Sodium Fluoride for Worming Hogs" is issued as Extension Folder No. 84. Single copies may be obtained free from the local county agent or by writing the Agricultural Editor, State College Station, Raleigh.

Seed Booklet Lists Certified Growers

Release of the 1951 list of certified seed growers in North Carolina is announced by R. P. Moore, director in charge of the Crop Improvement Association at State College.

In booklet form, the list is a directory of small grain, tall fescue and Dixie crimson clover certified seed producers in the State. Also included are dates for filing application for certification, variety descriptions, certification standards and number of acres of various seed crops approved for certification in 1951.

The varieties listed in the booklet are recommended for North Carolina by the Experiment Station and State College. Fields producing the sources of seed listed have met the North Carolina certification requirements for source of seed, purity and variety and freedom from smut, Dr. Moore said.

Copies are available at the county agent's office or may be ordered from the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association, Inc., State College Station, Raleigh.

Equality is something for other people to share.

A WESLEYAN METHODIST CONFERENCE

It was our privilege to attend the Seventy-second Annual Conference of the Carolina and Virginia Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, which convened at Colfax, N. C. The conference is composed of about 5,000 members. There are 100 churches and 94 ordained elders with nearly 350 licensed preachers. There are more than 8,000 enrolled in its Sunday Schools. The gain in church membership for the past year was estimated to be about 10 per cent.

The number of ministers and delegates voting was around 200. There were nearly 1,000 present, including ministers, delegates and visitors. The days of the conference were filled with sessions for the transaction of business and services for worship. The sessions were held in the large camp meeting tabernacle. The ministers, delegates and visitors were housed in the camp meeting cottages and dormitory. Meals were served in the large camp meeting dining room.

The Wesleyan Methodist Church is Wesleyan in doctrine and Methodist in government. It grew out of separations from the Methodist Episcopal Church. These separations began in the North in the year 1842. One of its chief tenets was the abolition of slavery. In the South this caused much opposition. Sometimes the preachers were tried in the courts and occasionally waited on by mobs. Soon after the turn of the century the church in this conference became almost inactive. But with the coming of the great revivals of the early part of the present century it took on new life which continues to increase and expand to the present time. The church stresses education. It has a course of study for its ministers. It owns its own schools and publishing house. The church is strong on the teaching of Wesleyan holiness.

You never tried a fine car like This One

YOU'VE a right to set your sights higher when you buy a fine car.

You can rightly expect more room—more comfort—more performance—and a lordly smoothness in the way it carries you.

So we present these facts:

You'll find, in a ROADMASTER, more usable room than you'll find in any other six-passenger car in America.

You'll find the extra comfort of double-depth Foamtex cushions in ROADMASTER only.

You'll find that the ROADMASTER has a high-compression, valve-in-head power plant that is also exclusively Buick's—a mighty Fireball Engine endowed with more performance than most owners will ever need.

And you'll find that a ROADMASTER rolls with unsurpassed levelness and poise, thanks to coil springs on all four wheels—which is still another feature found on no other car in the fine-car field.

But the thrill that is yours, when you get this willing beauty out on the open road, is something that can't be summed up in any listing of features, one by one.

It's a "feel" which, we honestly believe, no other car can approach.

It's the sure way this dazzling performer holds the road—the way it responds to your slightest wish—the quick answer you get when you nudge the throttle—the extra security you feel in the velvet grip of the brakes—the complete freedom from tension you find in Dynaflo Drive—the sense of mastery that makes every mile a joy.

And, confidentially, there's one more important way in which ROADMASTER stands alone, and that is in the modest cost of its pounds and performance.

Better come in soon and check for yourself what a great car and a great buy this one really is.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.
