

Big Mileage Of Roads Are Lined For Safety

17,500 Miles of State's Highways Centerlined During Last Year

The State Highway Commission last year painted 17,500 miles of highway centerlines, including the yellow barrier lines at potential danger points, it is reported by Traffic Engineer Robert A. Burch.

A total of 12,448 miles of white centerlines and 5,052 miles of yellow barrier lines, which serve as warning to motorists, were laid down in 1952.

Burch emphasized that the mileage painted in the year does not mean that is the total miles of painted lines in existence on North Carolina highways. Many miles of roads painted in 1951 did not need repainting last year due to use of a superior paint in 1951. Roads not repainted in 1952 will require new centerlining this year, Burch explained.

He added: "The painting operation, as a result of the demands of the public, has increased each year and it appears will continue to increase until such time that a usable and satisfactory line is in existence on all major roads."

In 1950, his division painted 10,934 miles of centerlines, and it painted 16,079 miles in 1951.

Last year's record-breaking operations required use of 162,853 gallons of paint, of which 84,610 gallons went into white lines and 78,343 gallons into the yellow lines. Rate of paint application on the white lines averaged 6.8 gallons per mile.

All of the paint was manufactured at Central Prison, and all of it was pre-mixed with reflectorized beads which give the centerlines greater visibility at night. Use of high-capacity painting machines enabled some of the work crews to paint in excess of 50 miles of centerline in a single day.
