

Our Neighbors

By MISS REBECCA COLWELL
Chowan County Home Agent

Thank you for saying you missed this column last week. I'm sorry I didn't have time to write it, but February was a very busy month. In addition to my regular work we moved our office. We are now in the office formerly occupied by the PMA, with newly painted walls and we will be delighted to have you come to see us.

Comments made by the people who attended the joint meetings held in each community in February indicate their interest in the subject discussed, which was "The Family Cycle". I don't think they were only interested in the flannelgraph that was used as illustrative material, or the sound movie, but the fact that it was a subject that affects every individual and every family. Its importance should give it priority over many other things that require our time. Helping to develop people, and to build character in girls and boys through wise guidance is a responsibility and privilege that should never be neglected. The most important thing for parents to do is training their children to meet problems, and to help them build character that will make them good citizens in the home, school, and community.

Three basic requirements for happiness for every individual and for a happy home: Security, Love and understanding, Recognition for each member of the family.

People who feel that only parents should discuss Family Life must remember that every member of a family is an important member of that group, and should be recognized. Since I am a member of a family and know many of the problems, and much of the joys of family life, I realize the importance of happy homes as the foundation of our civilization. After the children grow up and leave home they realize this more than ever, and cherish the memory of happy family relationships.

Mrs. Corinne Grimsley, Extension Family Life Specialist says there are many factors that will help parents build happy relationships with the pre-school child.

As the children grow through the early school years and through the "topsy-turvy teens" each family member has certain responsibilities if there is to be a happy family life. Tasks faced by the family as a unit:

1. Cooperation in respecting family routines, such as dinner hour.
2. Cooperation in expenditure of family money.
3. Respecting the rights of others: compromise, consideration, family teamwork.
4. Making family councils productive and enjoyable.
5. Maintaining a home with good emotional climate.
6. Sharing responsibility.

The most important thing for parents to do is training their children to meet problems, and to be good citizens in the home and community, and to help them develop a healthy personality. This is a big order and for parents who need or want assistance there are many sources of information, books, bulletins, trained family life counselors.

One of the contributions older people can make to their families and to their communities is to show the rest of the world that growing old isn't something to dread. These are the years when "John and Mary" must broaden their horizon; find new interests and tasks; develop hobbies to enrich their lives. They must practice the art of growing older successfully.

This Week's Poem

By WILBORNE HARRELL

TICK-TOCK

Tick-tock,
Night and day
The Pendulum swings
Our lives away.

To and fro,
The high and low,
From rags to Crown
All life runs down.

A clock you wind
To make it run,
But life I find
Is quickly done.

When lives run down
They can't be wound
Like a clock,
Tick-tock,
Tick-tock.

ceasefully, creatively, happily.
"May you live all the days of your life," and not just exist to find fault if things are not just as you want them.

If you have the habit of finding fault with others or your lot in life perhaps this quotation will make you want to break this habit:
"Nothing is easier than fault-finding. No talent, no self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set one up in the grumbling business."

When we're inclined to be selfish, thinking only of ourselves, the following poem might help us:
"Not as we take, but as we give;
Not as we pray, but as we live;
These are the things that make for peace,

Both now and after time shall cease."
