SINUS TROUBLE

"Don't blow your nose so hard, junior," mother calls to son, "you may get sinus trouble."

Mother is perfectly right. Blowing your nose violently is one way of forcing infectious germs into the sinuses, the air spaces in the bones of the head. Sinusitis, as the disease is called, is an infection of the lining of these air spaces, all of which are connected with the nose by small openings. Their lining, or mucous membrane, is continuous with the lining of the nose. For that reason, infections of the nose, throat, and chest can travel to the sinuses, with unpleasant results.

Sinusitis is frequently painful. Inflammation of the nose or of the lining of the sinus may close the air space and block drainage. If the sinus is closed for any length of time, the air inside is used up and a vacuum forms which causes pain. Pus or other secretions may form and press on the sinus wall, also causing pain, often severe.

Sinus trouble can be caused in many ways, other than blowing your nose too hard. In addition to respiratory infections like colds, influenza, whooping cough, or diphtheria, causes may be one or more of the following: sudden chilling, poor diet, fatigue, allergies, infected teeth or tonsils, enlarged adenoids, or other nasal obstructions.

Frequent use of sprays and antiseptics in the nose may injure the mucous membrane and bring on sinusitis. For this reason alone, it is wise not to use nose drops or inhalants unless the doctor prescribes them. Sinusitis is too serious to try to treat yourself. Uncured, it may lead to more serious diseases like bronchitis, mastoid infection, and arthritis.

Symptoms vary from person to person, but the most common are headaches, or pain over the infected sinus, dry and clogged nasal passages, or post-nasal drip. Other symptoms may include fever; cough, swelling of cheeks, eyelids, or forehead, and general fatigue.

If you suspect you have sinus trouble, see your doctor. There are a number of valuable drugs for the treatment of sinus infection. In severe cases, an operation may be necessary to open the sinus and allow it to drain.

Hertford - Williamston High Play In Edenton

The Perquimans Indians and the Williamston Green Wave played a baseball game on Hicks Field Saturday afternoon to decide the winner in Class A Championship for Group One of District One.

The Indians won the decisive game by a score of 3-0 in a 10-inning battle.

Vernon White of Hertford allowed Williamston only three hits and fanned 16 batters, while Jay Perry, Williamston moundsman, also struck out 16. The latter, however, lost the game in the tenth when two errors played a major role allowing the Indians to score three runs.

Perquimans will next meet the winners of Group 2 for the Championship of District 1.
