THE CHOWAN HERALD, EDENTON, N. C., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1953.

Educational leaders—including Dr. W. Colvard, dean of agriculture, d David S. Weaver, director of the ulteral extension, at N. C. State lege—are enthusiastic over plans the 1953 State Fair in Raleigh Oc-20-24. Both predict this year's will go down in history as one the most important milestones in ss of North Carolina's agricul-

"The State Fair has become an imtant part of our agricultural life North Carolina," says Dean Colard, "because it gives farm people w ideas, including the most up-to-ate discoveries of the agricultural reurch laboratories. The same is true the industrial developments in hich most rural people are just as iterested, and dependent upon, as the ban citizens."

Weaver urged farmers, livestock eeders and homemakers to "exhibit products of the soil, and their kill and ingenuity at the State Fair. wish every citizen in the State could ke advantage of the opportunity to the exhibits which depict our ar-to-year progress, both agriculrally and industrially," he added. Both Dean Colvard and Extension rector Weaver are members of the eneral Advisory Board of the Fair. y are particularly proud of the chibit space and premium money alcated by Dr. J. S. Dorton, fair manger, for the "Challenge Program" isplays which will compete for $2,-50 in prizes in the exhibit concourse the new State Fair Arena. The county progress displays, de-icting the United Agricultural Proram being sponsored by the N. C. pard of Farm Organizations and gencies, will be presented at the 953 State Fair by Henderson, Iredell, hatham, Duplin and Carteret counes. The five counties were invited exhibit on the basis of their acmplishments in the "Challenge Proram" and their organizational ach-

I haven't tried it yet, but I'm in-terested in knowing. Can television be legally installed in a car? P.K.-Pine Level.

It can, but it's hardly worth the trouble. The Motor Vehicle Manual says any TV screen installed in a motor vehicle must be located behind the driver's seat. It may not be installed in any position where it is visible to the driver while operating the vehicle.
