S. Korea Recovery Program Is Billed At Billion Dollars

The U. S. Army is spending hundreds of millions of dollars to put war-ravaged South Korea back on its feet.

The Army was authorized to spend more than $700,000,000 (M) during the past three years for Korean relief and economic rehabilitation. An additional $170,000,000 (M) was appropriated to other agencies to provide economic aid to the war-stricken country.

Contributions from other sources amounted to $38,813,000 (M). These came from United Nations members and other free nations and from UN agencies, private citizens and relief agencies.

Major General W. F. Marquat, Chief of Army Civil Affairs, Military Government, said that despite huge sums spent by the Army in its wartime economic aid program for South Korea, it will take $1,000,000,000 (M) more over the next three years to stabilize the country's economy.

Korean Civil Assistance Command is the Army Civil Affairs agency now assisting South Korea's recovery. Functions of this agency, a new organization, were handled during the war by United Nations Civil Assistance Command, Korea. Despite its UN title, this was an Army agency. Its relief program was financed exclusively with American dollars. It was established early in the Korean War to prevent starvation, disease and unrest in the Republic of Korea.

"Most of the Army's funds appropriated during the past three years for Korean relief and economic aid already have been spent," Marquat said. "The remainder is earmarked for more items to speed reconstruction of South Korea."

Marquat said the estimated value of foodstuffs alone delivered to Korea during the past three years was $136,000,000 (M). Of this amount, the United States Government provided $125,000,000 (M) worth of the items. U. S. tax dollars also paid for an estimated $70,300,000 (M) worth of clothing, shoes and textiles.

Other items—purchased exclusively with Army funds—include 760,000 tons of coal and other solid fuels worth $11,800,000 (M); 562,000 tons of petroleum and petroleum products worth $15,081,000 (M); 948,000 tons of fertilizer and other agricultural supplies valued at $37,600,000 (M); 294,000 tons of raw cotton and wool and other raw materials valued at $33,220,000 (M), and about 9,300 tons of medical and sanitation supplies worth $11,428,000 (M).

"In addition," Marquat said, "the Army furnished more than $55,700,000 (M) worth of ocean transportation for relief supplies purchased with U. S. funds and those donated to South Koreans by U. S. church groups and other organizations."

Army surplus clothing and relief supplies worth $31,394,000 (M) also were donated to needy South Koreans during the past three years, Marquat said.

"In the field of economic affairs," the general continued, "the U. S. Army helped the Republic of Korea government control inflation. With the help of huge dollar payments—made by the United States for advances of Korean currency—the ROK built up its foreign exchange. Foreign exchange," Marquat explained, "made it possible for South Korea to buy raw materials and finished goods to help rehabilitate the ROK economy and to check inflation.

"All this is only a small part of the tremendous contribution made by the Army and other U. S. organizations to pull South Korea out of economic ruin," Marquat emphasized.

"In addition to relief supplies and equipment and direct economic aid, United Nations Civil Assistance Command, Korea, gave valuable advice and guidance to the ROK in its efforts towards economic recovery."

St. Paul's Auxiliary* Bazaar November 17

Ladies of St. Paul's Auxiliary are progressing with plans for their fifth annual bazaar which will be held at St. Paul's Parish House Tuesday, November 17. This year, as in the past, numerous handmade articles ranging from children's toys, clothing, furniture and household articles, as well as plants, shrubs and bulbs, will be sold at the bazaar.

The bazaar closes at night with a dinner and auction sale. Dinner tickets will soon be available from members of the Auxiliary. Mrs. L. A. Patterson is general chairman of the bazaar.

The Silver Lining

"Johnny, I am rather shocked. I have had a note from your schoolmaster in which he tells me that you are last in a class of thirty boys. What have you to say about that?"

"Well, dad, I'm sorry, but it might have been worse."

"How could it have been worse?"

"It might have been a larger class."

We confess that some of today's hep tunes are beyond our reach.

How To Bake A Ham: Place meat fat side up on a rack in a shallow pan. Use no water, no cover. Bake to 150 degrees internal temperature as shown on meat thermometer (162 degrees if no glaze is used). Remove skin and glaze.

Sweet Glazes For Topping: Pour off drippings. Cut fat diagonally, 1/4 inch deep. Cover with one of these glazes. Return to 400 degree oven, 15 minutes.

- 1 cup sifted brown sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons flour.
- 1 cup sifted brown sugar mixed with 1 tablespoon dry mustard.
- 1/2 cup orange, peach or apricot marmalade.
- 3/4 cup CS crushed pineapple and 1 cup sifted brown sugar.
- 1/2 cup honey.
