

Question: Is corn better for cattle when fed as silage?

Answer: The silo gives from 25 to 30 per cent more feeding value to the corn crop than when it is harvested and fed as grain and fodder. There is no waste of leaves, stalks and husks which contain about 40 per cent of the feeding value of the corn plant when placed in the silo.

Question: What chemical should I use for weed and nematode control in my tobacco plant bed and when is the best time for treatment?

Answer: October is the month for treating plant beds and one pound of cyanamid per square yard gives satisfactory weed control and costs less than most other treatments.

Also, 16-6-2 supplies the fertilizer needed for plant growth and contains cyanamid and fertilizer grade urea

Question: How can I prevent weed flavors in milk?

Answer: By eliminating such annual weeds as garlic, onions, and bitterweed, through the development and use of better pastures and crops.

Such feeds as clover, lucerne and cabbages also give characteristic flavors to milk when fed just before milking. Several methods for the removal of off-flavors have been studied but none give promise of providing a general solution to the off-flavor problem.

Question: Should I buy camellias that bloom in January and February?

Answer: In general, it takes less cold weather to injure camellia flower buds than it does to injure the plant itself. Except along the coast it is best to use varieties that bloom in the fall or late spring. Plants is what causes the plant to become diseased. We have two important groups of nematodes that affect tobacco: (1) root knot nematodes and (2) meadow nematodes. These pests feed and reproduce in the roots of a wide variety of plants and live from blooming in January and February are more likely to have their flower buds injured, and this is the most common reason for shedding before opening.

Where do I obtain information on soil testing?

Answer: Visit your local agriculture agencies—the county farm agent, the soil conservationist, vocational agriculture teacher, PMA office, or others. Ask for soil sample boxes, mailing cartons, and information sheets. Instructions for taking samples are printed on the back of each information sheet; follow them closely. Your only cost is postage to the Soil Testing Division, State Department of they involve a smaller investment than purebreds. Furthermore, the breeding and raising of registered cattle is a specialized business and requires more know-how and experience for successful operation.

Question: Could you give me some special hints to good honey production?

Answer: Honey is a special food and you should give it special care. 1. Cut only new, fully sealed combs. 2. Have jars thoroughly cleaned and dry. 3. Keep surroundings clean. A damp cloth can be used to clean up drips of honey and for wiping your hands. 4. Store honey in a dry place until sale. Question: Can I expect an increase in rate-of-gain in my pigs as a result of cross-breeding?

Answer: Yes. Experiments have shown that an increase in rate-of-gain can be expected. A purebred boar of one breed is crossed on a purebred, or a good grade sow of another breed. Many commercial hog breeders use a system called cross-breeding, where three breeds are used instead of two.
