

"Space Ship" Ride Awaits Visitors To Virginia Army Post

Fort Belvoir, Va.—Guided tours in space for the general public are being piloted by two U.S. Army soldiers who never have been closer to a rocket ship than their television screens.

The guided space tours are 45-minute dramatized traveltours embellished with picture slides, sound effects and a planetarium projector. They take place inside the Army's small planetarium at the Engineer School here.

Corporals Salvatore Ambrogio of (1311 Beach Avenue) Bronx, N. Y., and Richard E. Whitaker of (649, Notabene Drive) Alexandria, Va., venture on these inter-space expeditions without leaving the ground. They travel to the moon and Mars in space ships powered by imagination rather than fractured atoms.

Ambrogio acts as navigator and guide for the audience space-passengers when the rocket motors blast off and skies spiral and whirl as the make believe craft heads for the moon. A running commentary by Ambrogio from the control room via an intercom keeps passengers advised of the trip's progress as the projector whisks them from sunset to evening, and stars appear on the domed-roof sky. Upon the television screen appear the earth and the moon as they are seen from out in space. Artists' ideas of life on the moon serve as porthole pictures of that desolate orb.

Then the return trip. Again the rocket blast, and as the moon fades from view, the clouds, the oceans and the polar ice cap of earth present a welcome picture. The sun rises, and the passengers are back at Fort Belvoir. The round trip, Ambrogio explains took "ten days."

The audience at Whitaker's travelogue listens while the non-commissioned officer poses as a veteran space traveler who describes his three day trip to Mars and shows photographs. He concludes his lecture urging his listeners to take the trip and see the wonders of space.

The guided tours in space are presented as bi-weekly evening programs open to the general public. During normal training hours, Ambrogio and Whitaker serve as instructors in astronomy for the Engineer School's Department of Topography. It was for this purpose that the planetarium was purchased.

Easter Seal Sale Will Begin Today

"It should be emphasized that the 1954 seal is a minimum target and that we hope it will be greatly over-subscribed," stated Mr. Pottar. "In fixing a definite campaign goal for this cause, there is always the danger that the public will assume the sum is sufficient to care for all of our crippled population. Actually, the amount is sufficient only to help maintain the current programs and to provide for moderate expansion so that those whose needs are most urgent may be served."

W. J. Taylor, chairman of the drive which is sponsored by the Edenton Lions Club, appointed Alton Brooks and Parker Helms to contact the faculty and students of the Edenton City Schools for their contributions. He appointed N. J. George as head of the film showing campaign and Nathan Dail was placed in charge of counter collections.

The annual Easter Seal appeal is sponsored by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and is conducted in the 48 States, District of Columbia, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Hawaii.
