

Chowan Bond Sales In March $15,578.00

Total Sales In North Carolina Higher Than Last Year

Combined sales of Series E & H Savings Bonds in Chowan County for the month of March totaled $15,578.00. The combined sales for the first quarter of this year were $56,366.25. This sales announcement is made by Chowan County Savings Bonds Chairman, A. B. Harless.

In making the above announcement, Chairman Harless stated that the sales of Series E & H Savings Bonds in North Carolina were 9.5 per cent higher in March 1954 than during the same month of 1953. The cumulative sales for the first quarter of 1954 showed an increase of 3.7 per cent. This was the best first quarter in seven years. Sales-wise, the Savings Bonds sales in North Carolina, and the nation as a whole, continues to ride an upward trend.

Chairman Harless further stated that these sales increases are proof that investments by individuals in U. S. Savings Bonds are growing in popularity. "When Americans save through U. S. Savings Bonds, they are securing the future of America while practicing thrift," says Mr. Harless.

Cooking To Save—The "Basic 7" makes the homemaker's meal planning job easier and more interesting. Many important vitamins and minerals may escape down the drain, into the garbage, or be destroyed by heat if the cook doesn't take proper care.

These pointers will help homemakers save food values and pennies:

1. Many of the vitamin and mineral-rich parts of fruits and vegetables lie just beneath the skins. Eat raw or cooked fruits and vegetables whole, or peeled very thinly, whenever possible.

2. Vegetables should be cut just prior to serving or cooking.

3. Cook vegetables quickly in as little water as possible in order to conserve essential nutrients.

4. To eliminate failures and waste, follow tested recipes. Use accurate measurements.

5. Save and use meat drippings and meat juices as flavoring in other cooking.

Let Us Eat To "Live" — Better Health Through Better Nutrition — Children's attitudes toward food usually follow the example set by their parents. If adults enjoy a variety of foods, children assume the same reaction. The parents' habits, likes and dislikes, become those of the children. Reject one kind of food and the child will do likewise, if for no other reason than the "rejection" makes him feel more grown up.

Knowledge of how to apply science of nutrition to our daily living is important. A well-balanced diet containing a variety of nourishing foods helps make for healthier, happier living.

Build Good Eating Habits — After good, nourishing food is prepared and attractively served, the final step is a pleasant, congenial atmosphere. The family should come to the table calm and relaxed, happy and cheerful.

Mealtime is a good time to chat with children about play and school. It is a time to discuss things of mutual interest to all members of the family.

In the early days of this century the state of knowledge about TB was confused, to say the least. The germ that causes TB had been discovered. What to do about the disease itself was a subject for hot debate among the doctors.

The use of alcohol in TB treatment dated back many years. Some doctors prescribed just a little wine as tonic or to stimulate the appetite. Their patients needed a hearty appetite, since they were often urged to eat huge meals with between-meal snacks of quarts of milk and dozens of eggs. Other doctors had their patients drinking a pint of whiskey a day.

Most of the physicians who recommended alcohol did it because they sincerely believed it would help their patients. Some, perhaps, were willing to try anything. Others, believing that TB was a hopeless disease, felt the patient might as well drown his sorrows.

But the picture began to change. In 1904 a group of doctors and laymen who refused to believe that TB was hopeless founded an organization to study TB, to spread knowledge about it, and to encourage its prevention and scientific treatment. Today, 50 years since the founding of the National Tuberculosis Association, we know that TB can be cured with good medical treatment. Drugs of proved value and surgery are being used with rest to restore more and more patients to health. The disease has not been defeated, but the days of hysteria and hopelessness are over.

Mr. Meeker had crawled under the bed when he heard the burglar. He held his breath and waited. Then after a long pause he felt someone trying to crawl in beside him. "Is that you, Henrietta, dear?" he whispered. "No," was the answering whisper. "I've just had a look at her. I'm the burglar. Move up."
