Anne Pearce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Pearce, is shown in the Chowan County 4-H Elimination Contest held at Chowan High School. She was one of the county winners in a talent contest, a district winner and competed in the State contest during 4-H Week at State College July 19-24.

ported that progress in these fields promises solutions to many of the farmer's most costly problems.

In addition, Nickels for Know-How has made possible increased educational services to farm people in tobacco, peanut production, human nutrition, home demonstration information, and the use of radio and television to disseminate new agricultural information.

Beginning July 1, the directors of the Foundation approved funds to support further research in other critical problems in vegetable crops, fruit crops, chemical weed control, dairy marketing, grain marketing, farm management, tobacco curing, soil chemistry, forage crops, small grain breeding, dairy cattle breeding, animal nutrition, entomology, tobacco insects, forage preservation, genetics, tobacco diseases, small grain diseases, soil microbiology and poultry diseases.

Mr. Overman explains that a two-thirds majority of those voting in the October 15 election will be necessary to continue this work.

The question before the voters is whether or not they will continue to contribute five cents per ton of feed and fertilizer they buy to support an expanding agricultural research and educational program.

New N. C. Tourist Maps Now Ready To Be Distributed

Free By Writing Direct To State Highway Commission

Highway Chairman A. H. Graham reports that the handsome new colored tourist maps for 1954 are ready for distribution.

He said many changes and improvements had been made over last year's colored highway map, which have been printed in four basic colors, red, blue, green and yellow, plus combinations of these colors.

One outside panel titled "North Carolina Welcomes You" cites the 68,000 miles of State-maintained roads of which 33,200 are hardsurfaced. The State's legal speed limits and the coastal ferries' schedules are given.

Another panel gives an index to the cities and towns and points of interest.

The map itself shows US routes in red, NC and paved routes in black. The Blue Ridge Parkway is outlined in green. Below the map there's a new mileage log giving the distances between Tar Heel cities. Another legend gives the approximate mileages from Raleigh to such out of state points as San Francisco, 3,056 miles, and Miami, 855 miles.

On the reverse side of the map are 16 brand-new colored pictures showing such tourist attractions as Grandfather Mountain, Biltmore House, Briday Veil Falls, Duke University Chapel, Pinehurst Golf Course, Wright Brothers Memorial, Lake Waccamaw, an ancient shipwreck at Nags Head, Atlantic Beach, Hatteras Lighthouse, Airlie Gardens, State Fair Arena, horseback riding in the dogwood season, Blue Ridge Parkway, rhododendron on Roan Mountain and basket weavers on Cherokee Indian Reservation. In the center are sketches of the State Flag, the State Seal, the State Flower (Dogwood), and the State Bird (Cardinal).

Some 200,000 of the attractive new highway maps have been printed by the Winston Printing Company. Graham said the Commission already has a backlog of requests for the colored tourist maps. However, the maps are free and may be obtained by writing direct to the Location Department, State Highway Commission, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Nickels For Know-How Election October 15th

(Continued From Page 1, Section 1) eny problems that demand immediate research or educational attention. You can't anticipate all the problems you will meet two years in advance, when budgets are approved. New diseases, insects and other factors that have a direct influence on your income strike quickly and without warning.

"Nickels for Know-How funds are immediately available to put the forces of research and education at work in emergency situations, subject to the approval of the N. C. Agricultural Foundation." The Foundation directorship is made up of farmers and farm leaders from every county in North Carolina.

Colvard has pointed out that Nickels for Know-How has served to start new areas to research and education, or strengthen areas that were inadequate to meet the needs of the state.

In some cases, after the projects were started, other funds have been attracted to take over the work, thus releasing the flexible Nickels for Know-How money to meet other pressing problems.

As a result of Nickels for Know-How, additional research personnel have been put to work on major problems in poultry nutrition, poultry breeding, poultry diseases, evaluation of cotton varieties, crop stands, chemical weed control, vegetable crops, the effects of pesticides, nematode damage, insect damage, marketing and bloat in livestock. Colvard has re-

HEALTH FOR ALL

"What, Never?" "Well, hardly ever." Even the Captain of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore" occasionally suffered the pangs of sea sickness. You don't die of this horrible malady. You only wish you would.

The fact is that modern science instead of controlling sea sickness, has caused it to become more widespread. More and more ways of traveling have been invented, and more and more people are going places. It is now known that it isn't only sea travel that brings on that awful feeling in the pit of the stomach. Planes, trains, and cars can also be the villains. We have had to change the name to "motion sickness."

In wartime experiments thousands of military personnel suffered in the cause of science by being jounced in swings, spun in tilting chairs, flown through turbulent air, and bounced about in small boats in rough water. One result of their sacrifice has been a precise definition of the signs of motion sickness: drowsiness, pallor, cold sweating, salivation and swallowing, nausea and vomiting, appearing in that order.

Among other things learned was the fact that motion sickness is not "just your imagination." It's always caused by motion, even in the classic case of the old lady who got sick before the ship left the dock. Boats do move while tied up. Inexperienced travelers were found to be more susceptible, but really rough travel will make 9 out of 10 persons sick.

The wartime studies also showed that motion sickness is a problem for the doctor and pharmacist as well as for the engineer. Shock absorbers, gyros, and other devices to stabilize the equilibrium of vehicles aren't enough. Some types of motion are almost impossible to abolish mechanically. In recent years drug compounds have been found to protect the passenger with some success, providing him with an internal "stabilizer." Physicians today can prescribe several remedies almost as effective as the sailor's favorite—"go sit under a tree."

A Demagogue

"Father," said a small boy, "what is a demagogue?" "A demagogue, my son, is a man who can rock the boat himself and persuade everybody else that there is a terrible storm at sea."
