Weekly Devotional Column

BY JAMES MACKENZIE

Charles Haddon Spurgeon, the great Baptist preacher of another generation, used to tell of a man who said to a friend, "I would like you to come down to my garden and pick a bushel of apples for yourself; they are by far the best apples grown in this section of the country." He asked him about a dozen times but the friend did not come. Finally the fruitgrower said, "I suppose you think my apples are good for nothing, so you won't come and try them."

"Well, to tell you the truth," said the friend, "I have tasted them. As I went along the road I picked one up that had fallen over the wall, and I never tasted anything so sour in all my life. I do not particularly wish to have any more of your fruit."

"Oh," said the owner of the garden, "I thought it must be so. Those apples around the outside are for the benefit of the boys. I went five miles to select the sourest sorts to plant all around the orchard, so the

Here's How Much a High School Diploma Is Worth in Dollars and Cents

Almost lost in the thousands of pages of statistics recently released in the Federal Census of Population was an analysis showing the relation of schooling to income.

The figures show that the average man with a high school diploma earned 28% more than a man who had only a grammar school education. The actual figures reveal that a high school graduate averages $3,285 a year against only $2,533 for a grammar school graduate. What's more, a man with only one to three years of high school earns considerably less than a high school graduate.

Aside from the higher income and self-confidence that come with a high school diploma, the door is opened to a college degree. The same government study shows that college graduates earned an average of 42% more than grammar school graduates.

Educators are concerned over the large numbers of teen-agers dropping out of high school, because later on they will find that the lack of a high school diploma is an almost insurmountable handicap as far as better jobs are concerned.

boys might give them up as not worth stealing. But if you will come inside you will find that we grow a very different quality there, sweet as honey."

"Just so," Spurgeon would say, "those who judge the Church by its worst members make the same mistake."

That there are persons in every church who do not begin to live up to their Christian profession need not be denied. Indeed, we might even expect this to be so. As Billy Sunday used to say, "The devil is a smart cookie." It is part of his plan to draw the attention of unsaved persons to those in the churches who do not possess the saving faith they profess, and thereby discredit Christianity in the eyes of the world. Because of this church members have a tremendous responsibility to live as becometh the followers of Christ. Because of this, churches make a terrible mistake when they seek to pad their rolls and increase their membership by admitting persons who show no evidence of having been born again.

But the greatest mistake of all is made by those who look to the actions of some unsaved church member to form their opinion of the Church. The sorry church member is not an example of what Christ can mean in your life, for Christ means absolutely nothing to him. The unsaved church member is just along for the ride; he is the devil's camouflage, so to speak. If you really want to know what Christ can mean in your life, fix your eyes upon the person who belongs to Christ as well as to the church. See how that person meets trials and troubles, sorrow and frustration; see how he rises above the petty, mundane cares and affairs of everyday living. Better yet, fix your eyes upon Christ Himself. Trust Him as your Saviour, and allow Him to guide you safely through this life and into the next.

New Electric Skillet

The New Electric Skillet
A boon to a busy homemaker is the new electric skillet which made its appearance in appliance stores not so long ago. Actually it is a frypan with a heating unit built into it, the temperature of the skillet can be set and regulation just like the temperature of an oven. The pan can be used to pan fry foods for skillet meals, pancakes, warming rolls, and many other purposes.

The skillet can be connected to an ordinary electrical outlet, which makes it suitable for table use. With the skillet on the breakfast table late Sunday morning risers can prepare their own bacon and eggs without disturbing Mother when she is at the range cooking Sunday dinner. Filled with a tasty skillet meal, the pan becomes a chafing dish for use at the most elegant buffet supper—keeps food hot until the last guest has been served.

Here is an unusual and easy dessert that you can cook right at the table in your new electric skillet. Quick and simple, it is a good recipe to remember when time is short. You start by making delicate little French Pancakes, then you can make either-Sugarberry Blintzes or Cinnamon-Sugar Crepes by simply varying the filling.

French Pancakes
3 eggs, beaten
1/2 c. milk
1/2 c. pancake mix
Combine beaten eggs and milk. Add pancake mix, stirring until smooth. Place a teaspoonful of butter in electric skillet and heat until butter bubbles (380 deg.). Pour in batter for 3 or 4 pancakes. Bake until delicately browned on under side; turn and bake on the other side. Fill with one of the following: (Yield: 10 pancakes).
Raspberry Blintzes
Roll French Pancakes around a generous serving of sweetened fresh or frozen raspberries. Sprinkle lightly with confectioners' sugar and top with a mound of thick sour cream.

Cinnamon-Sugar Crepes
Combine 1/2 c. sugar, 1 Tbsp. cinnamon and 1/4 tsp. salt. Blend 2 Tbs. of this cinnamon-sugar mixture into 1 cup cottage cheese. Put 1 Tbsp. of this filling at the edge of each French Pancake. Roll up jelly-roll fashion. Sprinkle with remaining cinnamon-sugar and serve warm.

America by 1975 will demand farm products to feed and clothe 28 per cent more people and satisfy the demands of an industrial economy which will double.

The National Association of Manufacturers reports that Paul S. Willis, president, Grocery Manufacturers Association, stated in March that "food manufacturers are currently spending in excess of $38 million annually" for better utilization of agricultural products.

The NAM also cites the Paley Commission, which has reported that "it is predicted on the basis of adjustments in the world trade that farm exports will decline in the next 25 years from 13 per cent to 9 per cent . . . At the same time imports are likely to rise from 10 per cent to 15 per cent of the same base figure."
