Shipments Started For Tree Seedlings

Orders Now on Hand For Thirteen Million Seedlings

Shipments of forest tree seedlings for 1954-55 planting are now being made and the Department of Conservation and Development reports its forestry division has orders for more than 14 million seedlings, or about four million more than orders in defense backlog for this time a year ago.

The department expects to produce and distribute about 20 million seedlings this season in comparison with the record 34 million plus grown and distributed last year, which is producing seedlings this year.

"It is most encouraging to note the increasing interest in growing trees as a hobby," Douglas added.

"We know there will be at least two trees planted for every one cut down. Farmers are realizing the importance of techniques in trees."

As the seedling industry to individual landowners, the State Forester said, "I encourage people to plant trees. Your seedlings we expect to grow as blossoms may not be enough to supply."

the growing demand."

Douglas and Claridge urged all persons planning to plant trees to get their orders in as quickly as possible. Seedling applications may be made to the State Forester's office, Education Building, Raleigh, or to any district forester, county ranger, or county agent. Orders will be filled as received.

Claridge said the supply of slash pine seedlings for the 1954-55 planting season is already sold. More than three million of this species were grown this year.

The C&D Department officials said the State's third tree nursery, which is located on Little River about three miles west of Goldsboro, will produce about four million this season to add to the approximate 16 million seedlings grown at the older nurseries in Clayton and Henderonville. The Goldsboro nursery, prior to accepting the AGC plan,
