

Flue Cured Tobacco Allotment For 1955 Announced By ACP

Each Farm Allotment Scheduled to Be Five Per Cent Less

North Carolina farmers will be allotted 664,495 acres for the production of flue-cured tobacco in 1955, Fred R. Keith, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization announced this week.

Since this year's allotment was 695,995 acres, this means that each farm's allotment for 1955 will be five per cent less next year. Although North Carolina's allotment exceeds that of all other flue-cured tobacco producing states combined, Tar Heel farmers will still have the lowest tobacco allotments since 1950.

This cut in flue-cured tobacco acreage allotments was brought about by a decline in domestic consumption of cigarette tobacco according to Keith. "There just weren't as many cigarettes smoked this year."

The flue-cured tobacco carryover into 1955 will be the highest on record... 1,915 million pounds. Domestic usage of flue-cured tobacco through June 30 of this year totaled 778 million pounds, about six per cent less than last year. Keith added that exports this year were 431 million pounds.

Proclamation of marketing quotas on the 1955 crop of the flue-cured tobacco will not call for a grower referendum on tobacco. Tobacco growers in this state in 1952 voted 98 per cent in favor of quotas on tobacco for the three year period, 1953-1955.

Keith reports that state and county ASC committees are now working on breaking down this state allotment to individual farms and that farm allotments will go out around the first of the year.

Unfortunate Error in Classified Ad

Due to a typographical error in a classified ad last week, an injustice was done: Fred White, Route 1, Mr. White is advertising beef for sale and the ad quoted hind quarters at 49 cents per pound. Mr. White is selling hind quarters at 40 cents per pound and not 49 cents as appeared in the ad. The error is regretted and appears in proper form this week in the classified ad column.

60-SECOND SERMONS

FRED DODGE

TEXT: "Life's completeness depends on what it was lived for."
—David Starr Jordan.

At a church service honoring the retiring minister, he was asked to read the 23rd Psalm. This he did with quiet sincerity. The Bishop preached the sermon. After the service a man came to the Bishop and declared:

"I have heard great orators read the 23rd Psalm, but never have I been so impressed as I was by that reading today."
A faint smile came to the Bishop's lips. He knew the quiet, sincere ministry of the retiring minister. He remembered his love for his people, when he replied, "That I can understand. The orators you heard knew the poem. But, today, you heard a man who knew the Shepherd."

Beckie Harrell, who won first place in the dress revue and Esther Layton, who won first place in canning.

The mark is on the man who knows his purpose. He strides; he smiles; his eyes are steady; his voice is quietly courageous and he radiates calm assurance. What a sharp contrast is the one who lives for nothing at all. Ruled by the need of the moment, he has no moral backbone. He has no deep convictions against which to measure decisions he must make. Wise, indeed, is the one who learns early that a complete life knows why it is being lived.

Funeral Held For Charles P. Bunch

Funeral services were held Thursday morning of last week at the graveside in Beaver Hill Cemetery for Charles Preston Bunch, 84, who was burned to death Tuesday night when his home near Center Hill was consumed by fire. The Rev. L. C. Chandler, pastor of the Center Hill Baptist Church, officiated.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Cornelia Bunch; two daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Lamb of Ocean View and Mrs. Joseph T. McNider of Tyner and three grandchildren.

Vets Question Box

Q—I lost my GI insurance policy. If something happens to me, will my beneficiaries still be able to get the proceeds of the policy?
A—Yes. The policy itself, which has been issued to you, is for informational purposes only. It is not necessary to produce the policy as evidence that the insurance is in effect; proceeds will be paid anyhow, so long as VA records show your policy was in force.
