Home Orchards In Chowan Successful

Farm families who purchased fruit trees and plants through cooperative orders last year appear to have been quite successful with them in spite of the extremely dry weather. A very large percentage of the trees lived and made good growth.

By ordering the trees and plants operatively a savings of approximately 30 per cent in cost was made and also the contact with the County Agent's office enabled them to obtain proper information relative to setting, pruning and other care and management. A cooperative order of 25 pecan trees arrived last week for three people.
