

What's In Store?

By JOON AYNES

After being in a large city over the week-end, the best reason I can give for shopping in Edenton is the parking situation. The city fathers, police or whoever is responsible for the delightful arrangement of paying such a little fine for overparking, is to be congratulated. Having the meters keeps people from overly prolonging their shopping tours and gives others a chance to park, but the fine, being little, still encourages them to do that shopping and if a person is delayed, he knows he will not have to turn over the money that was to buy Aunt Minnie's Christmas present.

The Tricks or Treats crowd loved the suckers that come on a long strip of cellophane. 29 suckers for 29c at Rose's. It's a new way and easy to handle for children's parties, etc.

However, I noticed Christmas candy out already and can't help but feel that it will be stale by the time St. Nick arrives. It's quite possible that candy lasts that long, but it seems a little early to display it.

With the Marine Corps Birthday Ball this Saturday, some might be interested to know that the long, white formal gloves are available at Belk's.

Want to spray paint something? The canned paint with spray tops are to be found at Jackson's Radio Shop. Might consider it for decorating pine cones and branches for the holiday season.

If you can't tie a big red ribbon around one of the new cars to present to the car lover, take a look at the accessories in Western Auto and the automobile display places and perhaps you can find an outside mirror, a car cushion, special visor or something that would please the car enthusiast.

The handsome dried flower arrangement that a neighbor purchased at The Bouquet Shop lends enchantment to the home. Another neighbor bought an attractive arrangement of false leaves at Byrum's Gift Shop to enhance her home.

Noticed that there are all the fixin's for fruit cakes at the P & Q Super Market. And now's the time to prepare them for Christmas.

Thinking of baking, the Chapel Guild of NAAS Edenton is planning a bake sale Friday, November 9, at the P & Q Super Market. The returns will be used for Thanksgiving baskets for needy families.

Bad Company

An elderly man of convivial habits, but also bookish, was hailed before the bar of justice in a small country town.

"Ye're charged with bein' drunk and disorderly," snapped the magistrate. "Have ye anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced?"

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn," began the prisoner, in a flight of oratory. "I am not so debased as Poe, so profligate as Byron, as ungrateful as Keats, so intemperate as Burns, so timid as Tennyson,—"

"That'll do, that'll do," interrupted the magistrate. "Seven days. And, officer, take down that list of names he mentioned and round 'em up. I think they're as bad as he is."

A mother's love, touches the chart of God, and should it not appeal to human sympathy?

NATIONAL 4-H ACHIEVEMENT DAY, NOVEMBER 10

Nearly 2,156,000 4-H Club boys and girls will be honored for outstanding accomplishments on National 4-H Achievement Day, Saturday, November 10. Sharing their recognition will be more than 357,600 men, women and young people who serve as volunteer local leaders of about 89,600 clubs throughout the country.

State 4-H Club Leader L. R. Harrill says it is hoped that every county in the nation will observe this day in a way to bring recognition to the 4-H program. Harrill says that in the past year many 4-H'ers have completed individual projects in farming, homemaking, community service, and other activities.

North Carolina boys and girls have produced and conserved food, feed, and fiber; sewed and cooked; improved and beautified their homes; made their farms more efficient; stressed personal health and safety; protected our wildlife; and cooperated in a wide variety of community services.

Harrill says these projects have done much to improve family living through adding sources of income, introducing improved practices, increasing the family food supply, and conserving valuable natural resources.

Congress in neat little compartments depending on whether they voted "right" or "wrong" according to AFL-CIO standards. Southern Democrats and Republicans almost invariably are in the "wrong" column.

However, little has been said about how these "voting records" were compiled or of their accuracy. On the average, the 19 record votes used by COPE are four years old. One vote is more than nine years old. Only two were in 1956, and only three in 1955. Thus, only five, or roughly one-fourth of the 19 votes used, would be considered as current.

In one instance, those who compiled COPE's voting record got so confused that they listed "school construction" as issue No. 11, when the vote had nothing to do with this subject. The bill in question, in the 83rd Congress, was an appropriation bill which provided funds to operate schools in federal areas.

In another instance, COPE's issue No. 3 was entitled "labor injunction amendment." This bill of the 82nd Congress had nothing to do with labor injunctions. It was a bill to authorize funds for construction of overseas naval and military installations.

COPE's issue No. 19 is supposed to serve as a basis for judging the Congressmen's attitude toward foreign aid. However, the vote they selected was taken March 31, 1950, some six years ago. It was indicative of a view prevailing at that time with respect to the so-called "Point-Four" foreign aid program. It was not necessarily indicative of an individual legislator's viewpoint on the whole subject of foreign aid. In addition, COPE ignored literally dozens of other foreign aid votes within this six-year period.

Another important factor in connection with any voting record compilation is how members voted in committee. COPE made no pretense of compiling a record of votes in committees, where the most important decisions in regard to pending legislation are often taken.

Thus, where COPE's rating yardstick in regard to record votes is 2 per cent of the total during the Eisenhower has made it almost cer-

What will be happening on your highways by 1966?

Arthur S. Genet, 46-year-old President of The Greyhound Corporation, has come up with some exciting predictions.

For instance, he predicts that by 1966:

America's intercity bus transportation industry will be a billion-dollar-a-year business — more than twice its present total.

The nation's railroads will have virtually abandoned the business of carrying passengers.

Bus routes will grow to an amazing total.

Bus of the Future

The number of communities entirely dependent upon buses for public transportation will increase from today's 50,000 to 100,000.

As for the buses, he envisions: Many will be powered by exciting new engines that are already undergoing secret tests.

They will be more colorful — with new type dyes, paints and metals, adding brilliance to our highways.

More glass than ever will be used—they will be virtually picture windows on wheels.

They will ride more smoothly and quietly.

They will be lighter in weight due to the use of new plastics and still-to-be discovered new metals.

As for the nation itself he says: More and more people will be at work.

The average income will rise—the work week will be shorter—vacations longer—and more people will live longer—enjoy retirement longer.

Small Business Aid—President Eisenhower has made it almost cer-

Washington—A major weapon in the fight to re-elect a Democratic Congress is the tabulation and distribution of "voting records" of members of Congress by COPE, the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education.

Distributed by the millions, these "voting records" place members of
