Tips on Touring

Winter Driving Tips II

You're a smart motorist—so your car has been serviced for winter. Even so, if we get extreme cold, you may find starting hard. Here are some tips for taking the edge off winter nights.

If you keep your car in a garage, stretch a rope across the end of the garage and hang a blanket over it. Then, when you put the car away at night, smug the front end up to the blanket. This preserves some of the heat left in the motor and keeps the fan from scooping up icy early morning air, blowing it into the motor.

If you ever have to leave your car outside all night, you can still cut down warm-up time. Save a large shopping bag, fold it flat and slip it down inside the hood between grill and radiator. To secure the bag, run a cord through one end of it, and tie the cord to the radiator cap.

This also prevents your radiator from freezing up while you're driving through heavy snow.

Here are three ideas for frozen door locks:

On a warm day, fill an old squirt can with a solution of carbon tetrachloride (95%) and paraffin (5%), and squirt it around the outside door push button.

Or, if there are no warm days in prospect, get some rubber chair leg tips from your local hardware store and slip them over the ends of the push button. This usually keeps out rain and snow.

And if all else fails, try heating your key over a match before putting it in the lock.
