

NAAS NOTES

By CAROLE McFERRIN

Well... I give up... I didn't write a column last week because I couldn't scrounge up enough news... and I'll be darned if I'm not in the same fix this week. But I decided I had better write a column before people started accusing me of lying down on the job. I have no idea what I'm going to write about, so prepare yourselves for anything. A few bits of news though first...

The O'Wives held their May business meeting yesterday. A Card Party followed. Mrs. Joan Church and Mrs. Dorothy Nash were the hostesses.

Mrs. R. G. Leuder was the house guest of her daughter and son-in-law last week. She visited with Captain and Mrs. Robert Presson and makes her home in Stewart, Florida.

Lt. and Mrs. Bud Parker have recently moved into Albemarle Courts from Windsor.

Major and Mrs. James Aynes were the hosts at a dinner last week honoring Captain and Mrs. Warren Sherman. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Billings, Mrs. Fred Haines and her son, Stephan.

Lt. and Mrs. William VanHook with sons Michael and Mark, have returned from a week long visit in Ohio.

The 211 Wives held their monthly coffee last week at the home of Mrs. Jerry Havill. Mrs. Havill was assisted by Mrs. Bob Wall. From now on the writing becomes completely a spur of the moment thing. The first thing that comes to my mind is the coming election of Officers for the O'Wives Club. The election will be held at the June business meeting. Everyone be sure and turn out so you can cast your vote.

You know what I would love to be? A television critic. Some of the things I see, move me to say a few words, both good and bad. I never miss "Playhouse 90", "Mr. Adams and Eve", or "To Tell the Truth." I can do without "Jackie Gleason," "Hey, Jeannie", and "The Brothers." But everyone to their own opinion. Forgot to mention my "must" "Gunsmoke." I think that "Gunsmoke" is one of the most generally popular TV shows. I thought it was real interesting to find out that the only reason James Arness was cast in the role of Matt Dillon, was because John Wayne didn't want to do a week-long show.

Well, I guess I should quit for now before I get carried away and start expounding on all sorts of things. Most of which I'm sure you don't care a farthing about. But every once in a while I get the urge to really get going on this thing and say a few words for the public... but after thinking it over... Bye...

PORTRAIT OF AN ARTIST—Kokomo, the celebrated painting chimpanzee, jumps in exultation in New York after finishing his latest work, lying on the table. He may never challenge the masters, but the 1½-year-old chimp is apparently delighted at his efforts to make monkeys out of his fellow artists.

wrote, "Men do not suspect faults which they do not commit." There is a man of my acquaintance who, by a set of circumstances happened into a job which is far above his training and abilities. He uses many schemes to hide his short-comings. One of his constant complaints is that his co-workers are conniving against him; that they are trying to make him "look bad"; that they are not loyal to him. The faults he finds in others are rooted in his own heart. He sees their mirages where they are not. Those who know him know that he is pointing at himself.

Necessary Item

"Now," said the man who was paying the bills, "can you tell me what this pantry room is for?"

"That will be a chart room, not a pantry," explained the architect. "As long as your wife wants the complete electric kitchen we have to put a chart room next to it, so she can refer to it when wanting to push the right lever or turn the right switch for roasting, toasting, defrosting, grilling, canning, boiling, doing dishes and so on."

Car owners spend an average of $325 a year to operate their automobiles.

TEXT "Black detraction finds faults where they are not."
—Massinger.

A grumpy husband, persuaded against his will to take a trip into the mountains, listened to his wife go into raptures about the scenery.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "I think this is just heavenly!"

"Humph," grunted her husband, "take away the mountains and the lake and what have you? It's just like anywhere else."

The fault-finder often thinks that he is pointing out truths which others do not see. He points more accurately than he knows, for he points at himself. The fault-finder recognizes in others, his own weaknesses. Samuel Johnson

DO YOU KNOW... About Need For Foster Home Care?

Recently a little seven year old girl walked into the office of a county welfare department. She was hungry; she was dirty; and all she had on was a dress.

She said she had walked from town but could give little information about her parents.

It took several hours for the social worker to identify her. Then the worker took her and drove into her neighborhood. The child was correct; she had no home. Her mother had left town two or three years ago. Her father had been arrested the morning of the day the child walked into the welfare department office. A neighbor had told the child to go to the public welfare department and that the folks there would find her a home.

Several months before, an eight year old boy ran into the welfare department office begging for a home. He had on only an undershirt, and apparently had walked in this condition for seven blocks. The caseworker found that the boy's mother had deserted the family and that the father, who was handicapped, was drinking steadily. The child had become frightened when the father became abusive and had come to the welfare department for help.

These two children are examples of the many types of distressing situations which come to the attention of the child welfare workers in county departments across North Carolina week after week. A total of 2,272 children were receiving foster home care in this State in March 1957. State and county funds are available for this purpose and the foster home parents render a real service to children and the community.

Some children are placed in foster homes, as these two neglected children were, because of parental neglect or abandonment. Other children need foster home care because of delinquency and have to be removed from their homes for their own and the community's protection. Still other children are so handicapped physically or mentally that their mothers cannot care for them along with their normal brothers and sisters.

You're really "flying" when you drive at excessive speeds says the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles, because a portion of your tires lose contact with the roadway. When cars travel at speeds over 60 mph, centrifugal force develops a "throw-out" in the tires that pulls them away from the pavement.
