

AROUND THE FARMS IN CHOWAN

By C. W. OVERMAN, Chowan County Agent

Dalapon Kills Wiregrass

Dalapon, trade name Dowpon, is being tried in Chowan County for killing wiregrass. The results are looking very good in spite of the dry weather toughening the plants.

The county agent's office was furnished one case of Dalapon for demonstration purposes in the county. W. O. Boyce of Center Hill community is trying it on heavy wiregrass spots in ladino clover. Sid Campen of Edenton is trying a small amount to stop wiregrass edging into his flower beds. W. C. Bunch of Rocky Hock community is trying it on severely wiregrass infested spots on his farm. I am trying it on heavy wiregrass infested areas about the edges of my garden and orchard and in a row of dewberries.

Dalapon is a non-selective material. This means that it will kill almost any plant which it gets on insufficient quantities and will damage wherever it strikes. Therefore, when using it among plants which one does not wish to kill, particular care must be used to avoid getting it on those plants. For example, the dewberry plants were covered with a bag before spraying the wiregrass. After spraying, the bags were removed. The result is almost a complete kill of wiregrass and the dewberry plants are growing nicely.

Hog Producing Practices Are Being Surveyed

This spring the County Board of Agriculture discussed the swine production situation in Chowan County based on the 1955 agriculture census. They recommended that as much Extension effort as possible be devoted to improving the situation during the next year or two.

In view of this, personal visits were made to fifteen farms this week gathering information and pointing out needed improvements in the Gliden community. Items particularly noted were number of brood sows kept, number of hogs produced from same during the last 12 months period, type of farrowing facilities, acreage of corn and pasture being produced for hogs. Although the survey has just begun, lack of adequate farrowing facilities is outstanding.

Extension Program Projection Emphasized At Agents' Meeting District Agent John Piland and Assistant Director Brice Ratchford, met with county agents of the Albemarle area at Elizabeth City on Friday afternoon, July 19. The use of Extension program projection was particularly emphasized by these leaders.

Last year each county conducted an agricultural Extension program planning activity known as "Extension Program Projection." In the procedure, a group of farm and home leaders from over the county held a meeting with Extension agents and organized into various committees needed. Each committee listed the problems in its particular phase of farm and/or home work, what needed to be done, and recommendations as to how this might be accomplished. Resulting from this was a complete report for the county. The leaders in a group meeting divided the problems or needs into three groups: Those which should receive second attention, and the remainder to be followed up as time permits.

Based on this information the annual program plans of work and work execution are to be carried out by the people. The two state leaders at the meeting on Friday emphasized the great value of program projection, urging the agents to use it constantly toward farm and home improvement in the counties.

One of the most important points in an efficient farming operation is to get done in an off-season those jobs which do not have to be done during planting or harvesting.

Taking soil samples is one such important job. Right now is an excellent time to take samples from those fields that are to be planted either this fall or next spring. Soil samples can be taken any time of the year without affecting the results of the tests or the fertilizer recommendations that will be made. Taking them early means that the grower will have this job done well ahead of time, and he can then concentrate on other details of planting which cannot be handled just any time.

There's another advantage in early sampling, too. Farmers sending samples in now will have their fertilizer and lime recommendations back well before planting time. In the past many growers have waited until just prior to planting to send in their soil samples. As a result, the Soil Testing Laboratory gets swamped with work and some delay results. By sending samples in early, however, farmers can prevent this delay.

Farmers of Chowan County should send their samples in for testing now. It's the best method known for insuring a high return on lime and fertilizer investments, and thus increasing the net farm income. Soil sampling cartons may be obtained from Mr. Overman's office or from the ASC, SCS, or Vocational Agriculture teacher.

How Do You Worship GOD?

Ask that question of 100 people and you'll get 100 answers. Episcopalians believe there's only one answer — you worship God as a part of a group of people meeting together on the Lord's Day and in His Church. And we believe that the service of worship is something in which everyone should take part. That's why we Anglicans — 40,000,000 of us the world over — use "The Book of Common Prayer" (in whatever country it's used, it's in the language of the country) so that we may all take part in the service. We're convinced that when we worship God in this way, we'll be the better able to carry that worship of God out into our everyday lives in the world in which we live and work. The teaching of the Episcopal Church is practical, workable, down to earth — a religious approach that helps you to use Christianity to meet the problems of every day living. We find in the Church and its Sacraments a source of strength and comfort beyond words to describe. Wouldn't you like to know more about it? Visit the Episcopal Church near you — soon You'll find a friendly welcome.
