Weekly Devotional Column

By JAMES MacKENZIE
I wonder if other Americans are as distressed as I am over the approval by the World Council of Churches of a statement urging that nations testing nuclear weapons stop such tests for a trial period, even lacking international agreements, in hopes that other governments might follow their example (Time Magazine, August 19, 1957).

In effect, the World Council is asking the United States to disarm, and hope that Russia will follow our good example. What prompted this statement is beyond me. True, there are communists in high places on the World Council, representing churches from Iron Curtain countries, but they are a small minority. Perhaps the statement can be explained by the fact that most of the World Council leaders are religious "liberals"—and, despite their good qualities, religious "liberals" are usually extreme pacifists, and very naive.

But the statement is a dangerous one, and individual Christians should be quick to disassociate themselves from it. The statement, first of all, assumes that Russia is armed to the teeth merely because she is afraid of American aggression. I cannot believe this. Surely the Russian leaders, with the vast Soviet espionage system at their disposal, know enough about American sentiment to be convinced that we are not out to conquer the world, but seek only to live with our neighbors in peace and security.

The statement also assumes that Communist leaders are sincere men of honor. It seems to say, "Let the Americans cease nuclear research, and the Russians will be shamed into following their good example." What can one say to this? Don't the World Council leaders read the daily newspapers? Do they not realize that the leaders of Soviet Russia are atheists, with no moral or religious scruples whatever? Are they not conversant with recent history? With the pact between Hitler and Stalin? With Hungary? With Poland? Fortunately, the leaders of our country are realistic men, who will not be influenced by such fuzzy-headed logic. To follow the advice of the council's statement would be to commit national suicide. I have faith that those in authority in our government are too level headed to pay any attention to the statement. I trust also that they will realize the leaders of the National and World Councils of Churches speak only for themselves, and not for the Christian people of America. The World Council also refused to take a stand as believing in the Holy Trinity. Lord, have mercy upon us!

The P. R. Floyds then invited into the dining room where evening refreshments were served.

The party rooms were lovely with a profusion of traditional white arrangements, but in the dining room a blue and yellow color note was accented in the decorations. The bride's table was overlaid with a cloth of imported white organdy and blue linen over satin. The center candleabra was entwined with dainty flower sprays, and was placed on an antique reflector.

Miss Doris Caldwell of Dillon poured punch, while Misses Sarah and Lela Floyd and Mrs. Martha Risher assisted in serving canapés, hors d'oeuvres, ham biscuits, and petits fours.

Others assisting with duties of the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Floyd, who received in the den, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Webster, who received on the sun porch.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin P. Williams and daughters, Misses Lula and Emily Williams of Lumberton, entertained during the evening in the music room, the latter three rendering musical selections during the party hour.

A gift in silver was presented to the honor guests, and the attendants were remembered with gifts at this time by the bridal couple. The honoree also received a corsage of pink flowers from her hostess upon arrival.

Wedding Breakfast
Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Floyd, and Mrs. W. B. Webster were hosts on Saturday at a wedding breakfast honoring members of the Bond-McCollum bridal party. The event was held at the P. R. Floyd home, which was attractively decorated for the occasion with flowers carrying out a white and yellow color scheme. Covers for 34 guests were placed at tables in the living room and den for the enjoyable affair, and during the hour the bride was remembered with a gift of silver.

ABUNDANT LIFE BY ORAL ROBERTS

YOU CAN BE YOUR OWN DOCTOR

Health of body and health of mind are two of the most important possessions in the world. These two possessions are available if you wish them. No one understands just exactly what healing is and no one can explain exactly how it takes place, but you know that if you prick your finger, it heals itself.

When a physician treats you for a cold or for another disease, he does not heal. He simply acts as an agent. When an operation is performed, the surgeon does not heal. He simply makes an incision, closes the wound and waits for healing to take place. Healing is a miracle whereby a tissue or an organ is restored to its normal function.

But many people do not realize that our mental attitude has much to do with our physical condition. Fear, guilt, resentment, spite and hate all affect us physically. Circulation of the blood is changed, capillaries are restricted and the blood pressure goes up. This puts an added load on the heart and makes the body wear out before it is time.

A minister once told me of a lady in South Carolina who was suffering from wrong thinking. He said:

"She was a member of my church for several years. She was the very picture of health and a charming, wonderful person to be around.

"But something happened. Something which she never disclosed, caused a feeling of resentment and fear to come upon her. Soon she was complaining of being unable to swallow. Continuously her throat worked in a swallowing motion but she could not combat it.

The "Dime Per Bale For Cotton" is to aid research, education, promotion and legislation on cotton. If approved, the proposal will authorize cotton ginners to assess growers 10 cents per bale. The money will be turned over to the North Carolina Cotton Promotion Association to aid the cotton projects. It is estimated that such concentrated effort can result into as much as $40,000,000 more income for North Carolina cotton growers.

"Chowan County is an agricultural county," says Mr. Overman, "and Chowan County farmers stand to gain just as much through these programs, in proportion, as any county in the State." Mr. Overman urges all farmers in Chowan County to go to the polls and vote on the "Nic-strong football machine.

The schedule, as released by Coach Billings, includes 10 games, with the September 27 game still open. Six of the games are scheduled to be played at home.

Following is the schedule:
September 6—Roanoke Rapids at Roanoke Rapids.

September 13—Wallace-Rose Hill at Edenton.

September 20—Williamston at Williamston.

September 27—Open.

October 4—Elizabeth City at Edenton.

October 11—Tarboro at Edenton.

October 18—Hertford at Edenton.

October 25—Ahoskie at Edenton.

November 1—Plymouth at Plymouth.

November 15—Manteo at Edenton.

Wallace-Rose Hill is a newcomer on the schedule, replacing Byrd.

Great Bridge. The Aces defeated the Duplin County outfit last year in a hard-fought game for the Eastern Class A championship. Wallace-Rose Hill usually has a very strong football team, so that it should be a test of strength for the Aces in their second game of the season.

HD Club Leaders Plan Programs

At a meeting held at the Chowan Community Building last week, Chowan Home Demonstration Club leaders planned the program they will have presented to them for 1958, according to Miss Maudred Morris, home agent. The monthly demonstrations were planned as well as the activities for the various committees.

Those attending were Mrs. Lester Copeland, Ryland; Mrs. Fred Bunch and Mrs. George Alma Byrum, Enterprise; Mrs. Roland Evans, Mrs. R. H. Hollowell and Mrs. H. M. Nixon, Chowan; Mrs. Florene Nixon and Miss Ila Bass, Gum Pond; Mrs. H. T. Hollowell and Mrs. B. P. Monds, Center Hill; Mrs. Paul Ober, Beech Fork; Mrs. M. T. Barrington, Edenton.
