Chowan Negro 4-H Team In Contest

The third annual State-wide dairy cattle judging contest was held a few days ago at the State College Dairy Farm, Raleigh. The teams consisted of 4-H boys and girls coming from the 52 counties of the state where Negro farm and home agents are employed.

The classes of cows judged were Ayrshire, Guernsey, Holstine and Jersey. The teams making the highest scores were declared first, second and third class teams. In this contest the first place team was from Granville County, the second place team from Anson County and the third place team was from Pitt County. The highest scoring team was awarded a beautiful trophy and each member of the first place team, including the agent, received a gold medal. Each member of the second team received a silver medal and each member of the third team received a bronze medal.

Medals were awarded to the first three highest scoring individual on any team for making the highest score for judging the different classes of dairy animals. Peter Littlejohn from the St. John Community of Chowan County was the third highest scoring individual in the contest judging Jersey classes of cows. For this Peter Littlejohn was awarded a bronze medal.

The team from Chowan County consisted of Peter Littlejohn, James Wills, Jr., Ernest White and William Newby. The team from Chowan County did a fine job of judging.

Chowan Women Attend Workshop

The second Annual Eastern District Handicraft Workshop ended Thursday after a three-day session at the Roanoke Island 4-H Camp. Some 250 home demonstration club women and agents from 16 Eastern district counties attended, according to Iola Pritchard, N. C. Agricultural Extension Service food conservation and marketing specialist.

The workshop, designed especially for home demonstration club women in the eastern part of the state, began Tuesday. Club women and agents participating in the activities from Chowan County were: Mrs. H. T. Hollowell, Tyner; Mrs. M. M. Nixon, Rt. 1, Edenton; Mrs. Roland Evans, Rt. 1, Edenton; Miss Maired Morris, home agent, and Miss Jacqueline Pugh, assistant home agent.

Various craft classes held during the week included such subjects as aluminum chasing and embossing, aluminum etching, basketry, copper enameling, hammered and tooled leather, dried arrangements, leather craft, paper raffia, plastic jewelry, decorated plates, remodeling hats, braided and hooked rugs, silk screening, stool bottoming and tube painting.

This workshop and one held in the western part of the state earlier in the summer are unique in North Carolina as home demonstration activities.
