

AROUND THE FARMS IN CHOWAN

By C. W. OVERMAN, Chowan County Agent

The last four weeks have been FAIR. Last week was the N. C. State Fair Week. The week before was Chowan County Fair. The two weeks before that were preparations for the fairs. I intended to take a vacation last week and attend the National County Agents' meeting in Boston but ended up by "Fairing".

I thought we had a very commendable exhibit at the N. C. State Fair. There were five booths on the Challenge Program from as many different sections of the State. Surry County's exhibit placed first with a prize of $600. Nash County took second place with $500. Chowan County took third place receiving $450. Macon County placed fourth receiving $450, and another county placed fifth receiving $450.

The Chowan exhibit depicted "More Dignity and Contentment in Country Living." This was exemplified by a wedding scene at Rocky Hock Baptist Church. The newly married couple were standing in front of the church with their friends "Looking To The Future." The future was represented by a modern farm and home scene placed on the other end of the exhibit. Along the highway between "the beginning" and "the goal" we showed model buildings with scenes representing spiritual, social, health and other values which contribute to making more dignity and contentment in country living. The backdrop was a scene of the Bertie side showing the highway disappearing behind the river. Our completed exhibit fitted the mental picture we had developed to exemplify the idea.

Agriculture workers contributing to this were: James Griffin, George Conner, E. S. White, Mrs. Lorraine Rogerson, Miss Ann Lassiter, Miss Mairdred Morris, Mrs. Jacqueline Lewis, R. S. Marsh, C. W. Overman.

Phillip Morris, a senior at Chowan High School, did an excellent job painting the backdrop scene. The Chowan County Fair the previous week was excellent in my opinion. Our horticultural and field crops were smaller than usual but much more extensive than anticipated when we considered the drought that struck us last summer. Certainly a goodly group of exhibitors contributed toward making the County Fair a greater success. I would like to compliment every exhibitor who contributed in this event.

Now that the fairs are over, we are settling back in the groove of routine work. A corn variety test demonstration has been harvested. A milo variety test demonstration has been harvested. Several peanut demonstrations are in the process of being harvested. Results of cotton insect control are being checked on. Records on 4-H projects are being obtained. From time to time as these things are completed we will give you results.

Dr. George S. Bradshaw, federal veterinarian, is working in Chowan County testing cattle for Bangs Disease and a spotted check for T.B. We do not have a complete list of cattle owners so if you find that we have worked in your community and have not tested your cow, please be sure to call or write my office so that we can test your cow for you. We hope to get this work completed in the next two to three weeks.

It is very important to have

Marines Revive Traditional Military Ceremony

Pictured above are some of the officers of Marine Aircraft Group 14, including Col. A. R. Stacy, commanding officer. As the picture was taken the officers were toasting the Commandant of the Marine Corps, just one of the highlights in a ceremony which dates back to the early days of western military history. Uniform for the mess night, as it has come to be called, is evening wear or mess dress, dress whites or blues. The program proceedings start with cocktails 30 minutes before dinner is served. Then upon the playing "The Roast Beef of Old England," the officers take their places at the table. After the meal and the toasts, coffee is served and the commanding officer and guests usually make short speeches. The speeches over, the officers adjourn to the lounge and ante-room for singing and conversation. The purpose of the event is to foster a close relationship between the officers of the unit and is just one of the many great traditions which exemplify the outstanding "esprit" found throughout the United States Marine Corps.—(Official U. HD Achievement Day
 The annual Achievement Day program will be held Monday, October 28, at White Oak Consolidated School, 8:00 P. M. Club women are asked to be there at 7:00 P. M. The program will include a summary of activities and accomplishments of our work; a fashion parade showing dress for different occasions and the crowning of the Home Demonstration Queen. Each club member is asked to put one item of her work on the general exhibit. The Edenton club will arrange an educational exhibit on "Farm and Home Improvement." The public is invited to our program.

Ella Jordan, 4-H Club member of Route 1, Edenton, was rated second place in the district in her Junior Enriched Corn Meal Project. Ella was first place winner in Chowan County and was eligible to enter the district contest. As part of her project she entered six muffins in the district contest and these muffins along with muffins from other county winners were on display at the State Fair.

On this, "United Nations Day," let us "Take Time To Be A Good Citizen." "We, the people..." begins the Constitution of our United States of America. "We, the people..." are you and I. We must know more about what is expected of a good citizen—our duties, our responsibilities, our privileges. We are, every one of us, a part of our Democracy.

National Bible Week Oct. 21-27

From his vacation headquarters in Newport, Rhode Island, President Eisenhower wired Charles R. Hook, National Chairman for the 17th annual National Bible Week observance, a warm message in which he endorsed the all faith event. Sponsored by the Laymen's National Committee, Inc., this year's Bible Week is October 21 through 27.

The President's message is as follows: "National Bible Week focuses attention on the best known book in the world. From its inspired pages people in all lands have gained strength and direction in ages past. From its eternal truth our children's children will continue to gain help and comfort for years to come.

"Congratulations to the members of the Laymen's National Committee for their sponsorship of this annual observance. Realizing the world and its people are more and more increasing their sum total knowledge at an amazing pace, the need to keep our spiritual knowledge abreast with that of our material advancement becomes necessary. Without a spiritual guide—such as a daily reading and study of one's Bible—mankind might easily atomize itself into oblivion. That is why we observe a National Bible Week."

fever for two to three days with general aches and pains. It can be taken care of better at home than in the hospital. If you have symptoms of the flu: Go to bed.

Stay on a light diet. You may drink as much liquid as you wish. A tablet of aspirin will make you comfortable and will help to bring the fever down. An alcohol rub will also help.

Use paper tissues to cover your mouth and nose when sneezing or coughing. Put the used tissue in a paper bag and discard.

If your fever continues for more than two days call your doctor.

Alex Kehayes, Leroy Spivey, Paul Twiddy, Richard Batdorf, Charles Irving and Bill Goodwin, Explorer Scouts of Troop 156, were escorted by Tom Ridgway to the Oyster Bowl football game at Norfolk, Va. There they joined with other Scouts of the Tidewater Council in ushering.

The Scouts of Troop 156 were entertained with a movie of the Court of Honor held recently. It was presented by Jack Habit.

A lecture on camping was delivered by Billy Dail after which all the boys joined in a game.

The doors of Troop 156 are always open to any visitors. Meetings are held every Monday night in the Scout Cabin on Broad Street at 7:30 o'clock.
