Inheritance Taxes

John Doe dies. Who pays the North Carolina inheritance taxes of his estate?

- It is the duty of the executor or administrator of John Doe's estate to pay the inheritance tax-

Although the executor or administrator is charged with the duty of paying the state inheritance taxes, such taxes are borne not by the estate but by the persons who take the property under the terms of the will or the intestate laws. The inheritance tax is ultimately paid by the taker for the privilge of taking.

Consequently, the executor or administrator must reimburse the estate by collecting from each person who takes property the amount of the tax on his respective share. If it is a cash legacy, the amount of the inheritance tax is deducted before payment is cific corporate stock or other property of value, the executor or the beneficiary reimburses him. tor or administrator may sell the property to the extent necessary to pay the tax.

claim exemptions up to limited sums

A widow is entitled to an exemption of $10,000; and if her husband dies leaving a child or children under 21 years of age, and has by will left substantially all of his property to his widow, the widow may claim an additional exemption of $5,000 for each child under 21 years of age, provided the child or children under 21 years of age is not allowed an exemption.

'Children of the deceased under 21 years of age are allowed exemptions of $5,000.

The surviving husband, lineal ancestors, lineal issues (other than children under 21 years of age, who are entitled to claim $5,000 as exemption), and stepchildren of the decedent may claim an exemption of $2,000.
