Chowan Junior-Senior Banquet Very Successful

The Junior-Senior banquet which was held in the Chowan High School gymnasium on April 11 under the sponsorship of Mrs. Loraine H. Rogerson exceeded everyone's highest expectations.

The festivities officially began as R. H. Copeland, principal, delivered the invocation, after which Joe Hollowell, president of the junior class, gave the welcome and Paul Blanchard, president of the senior class, delivered the response. Everyone then settled down to enjoy the entertainment which was presented by several highly rated freshmen under the direction of Miss Cecilia Willoughby.

The next part of the program was what everyone had been waiting for, that being a full course dinner, which included chicken salad, ham biscuits, potato chips, deviled eggs, spiced crab apples, saltines, iced tea and brownie a la mode. Everyone then relaxed while more entertainment was presented, after which everyone took full advantage of the music of the juke box and began to dance.

The banquet could have very easily served as a fashion show, for the young ladies and gentlemen as well as the faculty members were surely dressed in their best clothes. In fact, it was very hard to distinguish the faculty members from the students.

The junior class was honored to have as guests the entire faculty, including W. J. Taylor, superintendent of the county schools.
