

RIDING WITH THE COLONIALS

By JIM NASH

Baseball is every youngster's game and is often carried on into adult life with most of us. With the opening of the baseball season here in the Albemarle, support of the Edenton Colonials is building bigger and bigger day by day. Many people are contributing time, effort and money to field a real contender in the form of the Colonials.

The league schedule will be published in the next issue but it looks as though the opener at Hicks Field will be somewhere in the neighborhood of June 1st. A big home opener with free hot dogs and soft drinks is in the making. We'll have more on that in the next issue also.

The team looks real good at this point and should be in good shape for the opener. Several exhibition games are planned and several notices and placards will announce the times and dates. Be a Colonial supporter and see them in action when they're in town. . . . If you don't have your booster sticker with the home schedule on your car window, ask your favorite player or any VFW member for yours. They can get it for you if they don't have any left.

Chowan Group At UN Program At Raleigh

Ten Home Demonstration Club women from Chowan County attended the United Nations Citizenship Day program at Pullen Memorial Baptist Church in Raleigh last Friday. The program was a state-wide event, sponsored by the State HDC, and was attended by approximately 650 persons.

The morning session was highlighted with an address by Dr. Abraham Holtzman, Department of History and Political Science, N. C. State College, Raleigh. He brought to the group an interesting and timely talk on "Major Issues of the Day in United Nations".

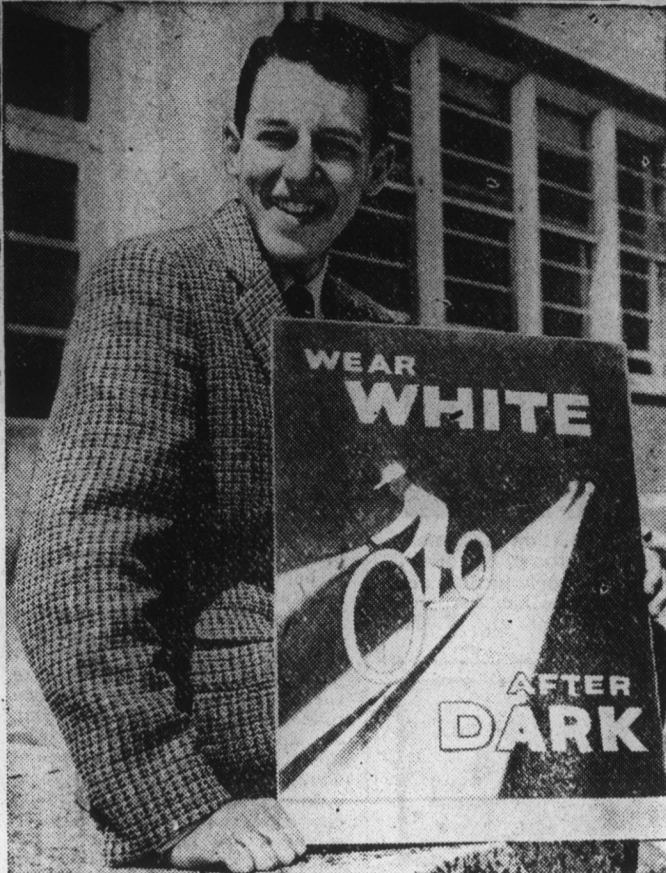

North Carolina HD Club members, dressed in native costumes and bearing the flags of the countries represented in the UN, were presented to form a background for the days' program.

After lunch, various State leaders gave reports from the specialized agencies of the UN which included FAO, UNESCO, UNICEF and WHO.

Those from Chowan County who attended the program were: Mrs. Shelton Moore, Mrs. Wallace Goodwin, Mrs. John Hollowell, Mrs. Dan Reaves, Mrs. H. M. Phthisic, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. I. E. Halsey, Jr., Mrs. B. P. Monds, Mrs. M. T. Barrington and Mrs. Roland Evans.

TEXT: "Whatever would we do without tomorrow?" —Unknown.

An employment bureau sent a modern young man to apply for a job which was open. Before long the young man returned and announced that he had not taken the job.

"What was the reason you refused the job?" the employment manager asked.

"The job," the young man replied. "The boss's daughter was married."

Everyone has a past, present and future. The past may be nice to remember, but it is over and done with. The present is always making demands which force us this way and that, against our wills. But the future — ah, there is the place to look! Tomorrow, everything is possible! The men who built this nation and made it prosper are men who dreamed of tomorrow. Yesterday, to them, was something from which to escape. Today was the day of escaping. Tomorrow held the high goal where everything was possible.

When yesterday and today restrain you, look ahead to tomorrow. As Elihu Root said, at 91, "keep looking out front". Tomorrow has courage aplenty to lend to you today. Look ahead and help yourself. When you stop and think about it, what would we do without tomorrow?

Merchants Study New Legislation

The Merchants Committee of the Edenton Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Thursday voted to canvass retail and service members for comments on legislation now being considered by Congress to extend provisions of the Federal Wage and Hour Law to retail and service establishments. Chairman Ralph Parrish said the present law covers only those firms which are engaged in, or produce goods for, interstate commerce. Senate and House committees are now studying several bills which would include all retail and service businesses under the Federal law.

Vice Chairman W. E. Malone reported on proposed uniform procedures to control solicitations and requests for advertising. He said that a draft of the procedure will be submitted to the Merchants Committee for study as soon as it is received from a committee of area Chamber of Commerce executives.

A fall sales promotion sponsored by the Merchants Committee in October was favorably discussed and Chairman Parrish said he would appoint a committee to work out the details.
