

Big Production At Planetarium During Summer

The biggest production ever attempted by any planetarium in any program is being presented at the Morehead Planetarium at Chapel Hill this summer.

Eleven months of planning went into "Land, Sea and Sky" to make it both entertaining and enlightening.

Thus, it has become a thrilling up-to-the-minute report of the discoveries of 10,000 scientists in 66 nations during this International Geophysical Year.

It's the biggest thing ever attempted and all North Carolina will be proud of it. It's a program for every member of the family of whatever age. In the past was presented a space trip show during July, August and September. This year there are three trip shows in one, plus new panorama, lighting and sound effects which differ from anything yet offered.

In it the new discoveries about the land, the oceans and the heavens and the trends they indicate are incorporated in three exciting and colorful phases of the program—an overnight flight to the Antarctic, a depth dive thousands of fathoms into the sea, and a zoom trip to the moon.

Researchers, and writers, artists and technicians conferred and selected the most important discoveries which could be graphically presented to the public, both entertainingly and educationally. Among those they chose are ice tunnels 90 feet deep in the Antarctic, life on the bottom of the ocean and sounds that fishes make 2,000 fathoms down and satellite launchings.

The program will be given daily at 3 and 8:30 P. M., on Saturdays at 11 A. M., 3, 4 and 8:30 P. M., and on Sundays at 2, 3, 4, and 8:30 P. M.

W. B. Gurley Named Pharmacist Of Year

W. B. Gurley of Windsor has been named "Pharmacist of the Year" by the N. C. Pharmaceutical Association and was honored at a testimonial dinner in Windsor July 9.

He received the association's "Mortar & Pestle Award", presented annually by the NCPA, to a pharmacist in recognition of meritorious achievements in research and scientific contributions to the advancement of public health and welfare, notable aid to the progress of the religious, educational, civic and business life of his community; and for distinctive organizational activity enabling pharmacists to extend the scope of their professional training.

W. Dorsey Welch of Washington, president of the NCPA, presided at the dinner and presented the award.

He is the happiest, be he king or peasant, who finds peace in his home. —Goethe.

Sunday School Lesson

SOCIAL JUSTICE AND THE GOSPEL

International Sunday School Lesson for July 13, 1958

Memory Selection: "Whatever you wish that men would do to you, do so to them; for this is the law and the prophets."

—Matthew 7:12.

Lesson Text: Matthew 5:13-48; 23:23-26

Today's lesson shows that Christianity is more than mere external obedience to laws. Since it is based on justice and love, our motives and attitudes are of prime consideration.

In last Sunday's lesson we saw that justice has been one of the persistent themes of the Christian religion. Throughout the Scriptures—both Old and New Testaments—we find many passages that deal with the subject of justice. It is no exaggeration to say that justice is a basic concern of the Christian religion.

Today we want to examine the views of Jesus as they related to justice. We must ask ourselves, was this for him, too, a primary concern? How did Jesus interpret the idea of social justice? Are his ideas about justice still important to us today? Will they help us to eliminate the injustices so rife in the world today?

The Scripture passages from the fifth chapter of Matthew continue part of the Sermon on the Mount. This wonderful Sermon has been called by many "the rules of the kingdom of God." It furnishes the standards by which man is to live.

The Sermon is concerned with personal relations. It deals chiefly with everyday relations between one person and another. It does not deal with the problems which beset our social institutions, and therefore this would seem to indicate that these problems are to be solved at the personal level.

In Jesus' day people were inclined to a very literal interpretation of the laws in their application to living. "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth" was their conception of justice. But this law of retaliation, after all, was at least an effort on their part to achieve justice. Jesus, however, strove to set this law, and many others, aside, and to give a deeper meaning and purpose to these laws than just the literal words. "46 For if you love those who love you, what reward have you? Do not even the tax collectors do the same? 47 And if you salute your brethren only, what more are you doing than others? Do not even the Gentiles do the same." (Matt. 5:46-48).

Some of the words of Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount did not accept the common interpretation of the law. His interpretations

GO TO SOME CHURCH EACH SUNDAY

What does he see? A school of minnows? A shining pebble? Or his own wavering reflection?

Whatever it is, he sees through the wonderful eyes of a child. God's creations are new and bright to him. He is fascinated by the sight of a bee searching for pollen. He marvels at the color of autumn leaves. He is enchanted by the brilliance of a star.

Somewhere along the line, most of us lose our childhood vision. We forget to wonder. We forget to marvel. Sometimes we even forget God.

We can get our perspective back into sharp, clear focus through the Church. We can recapture and strengthen our love for God.

If you haven't noticed, lately, how many miracles take place in your daily life, start going to Church. You'll soon see.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
