

Negro Home Demonstration News

By MRS. ONNIE S. CHARLTON, County Negro Home Economics Agent

We completed this week the neighborhood garden tours. We see definite improvement in the number of different vegetables grown and more families are growing a garden for their families. One hundred and thirteen gardens were checked in these neighborhoods: Warren Grove, Green Hill, Center Hill and Cisco, Ryans Grove, St. John, Paradise Road, Hudson Grove, Triangle and Virginia Fork. In all of our meetings this month, both adult and 4-H, we will take up the fall and winter garden. Please attend the meeting in your neighborhood. We are still working to Raise A Square Meal Around Home.

We wish to congratulate you on improvements you are making to your home and surroundings. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coston and Mr. and Mrs. John Coston of Canaan Temple have put running water and a bathroom in their home; also Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Holley of White Oak have installed running water and bathroom. New homes have been built by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Littlejohn, Canaan Temple and Mr. and Mrs. David Wynn, Triangle.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fayton and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Askew, Edenton, are remodeling their homes and adding bedrooms. When finished there will be adequate storage space in the kitchen and bedrooms. The men in these families are doing the work.

These improvements have been checked in Canaan Temple. Mr. and Mrs. William Creighton, remodeled home; Mrs. Orena Wills, repaired porches, steps and painted inside of home; Mrs. Carrie Brown, landscaped yard, relayed walk-ways; Mrs. Lula Wills painted inside of home. We are continuing to check other improvements throughout the county. Keep working.

The Community Organizations working on community progress are moving along nicely. WEED KILLER PAID OFF FOR COTTON THIS YEAR

Pre-emergence herbicides in cotton have paid off handsomely this year.

That's the report from W. G. Westmoreland, weeds specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

About 2,000 acres of cotton land were treated, Westmoreland reports. Most of treated land was in Anson, Hoke, Union and Cleveland Counties. Other counties had a few fields treated.

The rainy weather following planting put the herbicides to a real test. Crabgrass became a problem in untreated fields, while in the treated fields the weed killers did an excellent job. Most farmers who used herbicides are pleased, Westmoreland said. Many of them are now inviting neighbors to check the results.

SOCIETY MEETS

The Ladies' Aid Society of Providence Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Annie M. Privott Monday night, June 29, with a large number present. After transaction of business members were entertained with selections written by Paul Lawrence Dunbar. The group is looking forward to a "King for a Day" program which will be held Sunday night, July 5th. Members and friends are invited.

Question: What are the advantages of cultivating cotton shallow?

Answer: The advantages are (1) less pruning of roots, permitting full plant growth; (2) less loss of soil moisture; (3) cultivation equipment can be operated at higher speed; (4) less power required; (5) less grass and weed seed plowed into germinating area; and (6) increased yield.

Question: Can irrigation affect tree growth?

Answer: Irrigation on pines by pumping water into shallow surface irrigation ditches can almost double growth during late summer dry spells. At the present, however, the cost of pumping water makes it impractical to use this method. It may well be that as wood becomes more valuable and irrigation methods are improved, watering of the forest tree crop will be common.

Question: How does North Carolina compare with some of the nation's leading fruit and vegetable states in the number of cooperatives?

Answer: California has 274 fruit and vegetable cooperatives; Florida has 65; Michigan has 32. North Carolina has only six.

Question: Should sweet potato growers use a weed killer on their crop?

Answer: No. Not until further research is conducted. Some off-flavors have been detected in sweet potatoes treated with weed killers.

Question: What happens to cotton allotments when they are released for reappportionment and are then not planted by other farmers?

Answer: The allotments are lost to the county and to the state.

Question: How is the supply of quality sweet potato plants?

Answer: The supply is still good. This means farmers can be choosy in their selection. Horticultural specialists suggest that farmers choose certified seed, preferably North Carolina certified seed.

Question: How is the best way to cultivate cotton?

Answer: Cotton should be cultivated shallow, flat and frequent. Sweeps should not go deeper than one to two inches. Even though the cotton plant has a tap root, food is taken up primarily from lateral roots. About 75 per cent of the plant food and water is absorbed at less than a four-inch depth.

Question: How are most fruits and vegetables sold in North Carolina?

Answer: Most of the state's fruits and vegetables are sold through fresh market channels. A relatively small amount is frozen or canned. For instance in 1957 the total value of vegetables grown for fresh market was about $12 million. For vegetables produced for commercial processing the value was about $2.5 million. Cucumbers for pickling and snap beans are the two important vegetable crops grown in North Carolina for processing.
