

Weekly Devotional Column
By JAMES MACAZINE

Someone—I forget who, and I haven't time to look it up—once said, "I can take care of my enemies, but who will deliver me from my friends?"

Since I have expressed my opposition to godless, atheistic communism, I have received through the mail certain pieces of vulgar, scurrilous literature in agreement with my position on this issue, but so blindly anti-semitic that I am greatly disturbed at the future of the anti-communist cause.

The authors of the stuff are not strangers to me—they were admirers of Hitler before Pearl Harbor, and are now back at the same stand, peddling hate under the cloak of Protestant Fundamentalism.

The tie that binds them together is hatred for all things Jewish. To them the Jews control all the wealth of the United States—and, further, they are all communists (to any thinking person, this is a glaring contradiction, but there is an amazing number of people who never think). The Jews also control the Government of the United States, as well as that of Soviet Russia. Once again a contradiction so ridiculous it would be funny were it not so satanic.

To say that the Jews are in control of Russia is to display an appalling ignorance of recent history. Russia has consistently applied itself with the Arab states against Israel. Further, American Jews are deeply concerned about the rise of anti-semitism in Soviet Russia.

These irresponsible persons who spread vicious slander against God's ancient people will do well to read the warning in Genesis 12:3, that those who curse the seed of Abraham shall themselves be cursed of God. They might also profit from a study of Bible prophecy (see, for example, the Revelation chapter 12) which points out that all persecution of Jews comes directly from Satan.

The Jews have their faults—

dentists say "wonderful" . . . "best I've ever used" . . . "best tooth paste on the market!"

as do the Germans, the English, the French, and even the Scotch. But they are still God's chosen people, if temporarily laid aside, and those who truly love God will love the Jews. Indeed, a careful study of Matthew 25:31-46 in connection with other passages relating to the judgment of nations, will reveal that it refers to blessings in store for those who treat the Jews well, and eternal torment in store for those who persecute them.

I am a fundamentalist—and I have no use for atheistic communism, which I consider a scheme hatched in the pit; nor for Khrushchev, whom I regard as the nearest thing to the anti-Christ we shall see this side of the Rapture. But I will not give support to anti-semitism, even by silence.

Frankly Speaking

By Frank Roberts

Letters . . . we get letters (apologies to P. Como). The alumni have been writing. Jimmy Baker seems to be getting accustomed to life as a coast guard recruit; J. B. wrote me a good, long letter. He's happy enough in California, but he misses Edenton. He'll be back around Christmas-time.

Roswell Garst, the Iowa farmer who recently entertained Khrushchev, was recently interviewed. What an interesting person he is. Some of his quotes: "I think hungry people are dangerous people. I think hungry nations are dangerous nations." "I'm not a Communist nor do I admire the Communist administration system, but I'll tell you very frankly that I think they will make twice as much progress as the feudal countries who refuse to change their ways." His most interesting quote, though, is this one: "The most insane thing on the globe at the present time is for the world to spend $100,000,000,000 a year preparing for a war nobody wants, nobody expects and nobody can survive."

Television was on a western kick last year, this time it's the private eye show. All with fancy names (Peter Gunn, Johnny Staccato, etc.); same type of musical background, same plot. Recommended reading—a well-written, crazy-type book called "The Mouse That Roared."

"Around the World in 80 Days" was one of those rare cinematic experiences that one could see twice. Matter of fact, enjoyed it better the second time around. My thanks to Tom

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK - OCTOBER 4-10

Shields for taking over the chores on "Reveille with Roberts," yesterday morning, while I took a quick airplane trip up to Pittsburgh, Pa.

Here's a closing thought until we get together again next week: "Never throw mud. You may miss your mark; but you must have dirty hands." Joseph Parker is the author.

Wallace A. Hurdle Cited For Bravery

Mrs. Rosa S. Hurdle, North Granville Street, has been notified that her son, Wallace A. Hurdle, was presented a citation to accompany the award of the Soldier's Medal.

The citation reads as follows: "Airman Second Class Wallace A. Hurdle distinguished himself by heroism involving risk of life on February 19, 1958, at Suffolk County Air Force Base, Westhampton Beach, Long Island, New York. On that date Airman Hurdle, a member of the fire-fighting alert crew, responded with other members of his crew, to an explosion and fire at the flight line alert area. Despite the personal danger involved, and hampered in his efforts by exploding rockets and missiles, Airman Hurdle gained an advantageous position near the rangar and remained at his post neutralizing the fire until it was under control. By his courage and decisive action, Airman Hurdle has reflected great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force."

Little secrets are commonly told again, but great ones are generally kept.

GUM POND CLUB MEETS

The Gum Pond Home Demonstration Club held its September meeting at the home of Mrs. Ellie Bunch.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Charlie Peele read a few verses from the Bible for devotion and the club women repeated together the Club Collect.

Miss Pauline Calloway, the new home agent, was at the meeting. This was the first time she had met with this club and many of the members met her for the first time. Everyone liked her and they are sure that she will make them a good home agent.

Mrs. Herman Nixon gave an interesting report, "Should a Woman Work?"

Four of the members, Mrs. Carey Evans, Mrs. Charlie Peele, Mrs. Marvin Smith and Mrs. Cecil Nixon gave a demonstration on "Children and Money." Each gave an interesting talk on different problems that arise with children and money.

The hostess served delicious refreshments.

The Constitution

twenty-second amendment providing for the tenure of the office of the President. This twenty-second amendment was passed in too great a hurry just a few years ago, proof of which is in the present demand to have it repealed or further amended. There is also a question as to whether it was necessary to amend the constitution in this respect.

2. A proposed amendment to eliminate the poll tax as a qualification to vote. This is an attempt to interfere with states' rights which under the constitution includes the qualifications of voters. Then again it would appear that this amendment is aimed solely at five southern states which still retain the poll tax as one of the qualifications to vote.

3. An amendment granting the voting franchise to residents of the District of Columbia.

It is a moot question as to whether or not it is necessary to amend the constitution to carry out the above purposes. Certainly under Article One and other articles Congress has great power to legislate, and it would seem that under these powers that the purposes intended could better be carried out by legislation than by Constitutional amendments.

It is interesting to note that there is a possibility of great conflict in the choosing of a President and Vice President in the event of a tie vote. The article and the amendment provide that in the event of such an unlikely tie the representation of each state shall have only one vote in choosing a President and Vice President. If there should be an equal number of each party in a state's representation, who is going to decide who is going to vote for whom? It is an interesting question to ponder. Thank you.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

world to come. Death held no fears for them, for it provided the means of joining their Lord in the resurrection victory.

The pure and austere morals of the Christian contributed greatly to the growth of Christianity. They introduced moral purity into the social and individual life of a pagan era. Cruel violence, immorality, and the low level of regard for human personality—all these things felt the hammerblows of the moral purity of the people who called themselves Christians.

The modern Christian can bear his witness in the same basic fashion as the early Christians did; he can live and work as if he truly believes that Jesus lived, died, and rose again, that he lives today. The modern Christian can believe wholeheartedly that the Holy Spirit can come into his life and empower him as a Christian. He can make daily application of this faith in the pattern of modern living. All these are the demands on us for Christian witnessing.

The nations of the world covet and cultivate vital contacts with one another in order to maintain or develop mutual advantages. Trade agreements and military alliances can be maintained only as long as close diplomatic relations are preserved. The recognition of one nation by another is always signified by the creation of ambassadorships.

Similarly, God is at work with multiplied millions of his children who are in great need. His concern and desire came to splendid expression in the life and work of Jesus Christ, but how fleeting were his years in the flesh! When we remember this, we are impressed with the fact that only as his spirit and faith are invested in modern Christians also, does the redemptive thrust gain its best opportunities to reach the whole human family.

God is wanting to give every man a fair chance to choose, but how can people choose rightly unless they know the whole truth. A single Christian may feel pathetically insignificant amid the vast paganisms of our day, but his witness is essential if God's purposes are to prosper.

And, if each one of us individually heeds God's call to witness on his behalf, then soon we will be legion, in deed. Inside our beings each and every one of us contain a vast and as yet untapped power. Those of us who profess love for God are called upon by the Lord of life to make bold our profession by glad obedience to the yet unfulfilled commission. We are to strive not for our own salvation but for the ennoblement of all God's children.

A wonderful new world of style. Ford's beautiful new proportions flow smoothly through an elegant Thunderbird-inspired roof to swift rear-quarter lines.

A wonderful new world of performance. For action, there are new Thunderbird V-8's that blend blazing power and acceleration with kid-glove smoothness.

A wonderful new world of ride. With Ford's new Wide-Tread Design, wheels are spread farther apart for a full 5-foot tread. It handles and rides like the Thunderbird!

A wonderful new world of economy. Ford's Mileage Maker Six and Thunderbird 292 V-8 and 352 V-8 all travel beautifully on regular gas at savings up to a dollar a tankful. And go 4,000 miles between oil changes.

A wonderful new world of built-for-people comfort. Six big people—including the man-in-the-middle—ride in greater comfort than ever. The new Fords give you as much as 4 inches more shoulder room, more knee room, more hip room. You relax on chair-high seats.

A wonderful new world of safety. Ford's big safety news for 1960 includes new Truck-Size Brakes with brake linings 25% bigger. Ford's new Safety-Girdler Frame is 25% stronger than ever before. Better visibility, too.

FALCON—The New-Size Ford

Here is the welcome news Americans have been waiting for . . . the Falcon, a product of Dearborn, Michigan, automotive capital of the world, was expressly designed for American needs on the American road. It's the one economy car without the economy-car look.

Averages up to 30 miles per gallon. Experience Run, U.S.A., proved it! Oil savings? Ford's standard Full-Flow Oil Filter stretched oil changes 4,000 miles apart.

The engine's up front for greater safety and stability. Built brand-new for the Falcon, the short-stroke Falcon Six was developed, and mounted up front, according to long-proved, thoroughly accepted engineering principles.

1960 Falcon seats six with ease. Six fit comfortably into the Falcon—and it swallows luggage for six in the big rear trunk that holds 23 cu. ft. Compare this with others!

Easiest car in the world to own. A Falcon is so easy on the wallet that it's easier than ever to be a 2-Ford family!

THUNDERBIRD—The World's Most Wanted Car

For 1960, the Ford Thunderbird is distinctively new—without basically disturbing the famous profile that has made it America's new fine-car favorite. It's the most wanted car of all!

No matter who you are . . . or what your tastes and needs . . . there's an exciting 1960 Ford styled, sized and priced for you. See your Ford Dealer October 21!
