

The Roundup

By WILBORNE HARRELL

K RATIONS—There's a little of the kid in all of us, whether we be a big shot or just plain Joe Smith. It seems that Nikita Khrushchev kicked up a rumpus because he was not allowed to see Disneyland. There are a lot of big toys and playthings out there that big kids (and little) can play with, and Nikita acted like any kid would at the denial of a session on the playground. Lack of time to set up security and because Disneyland was not on the Khrushchev itinerary was given as the reason for the refusal. (Walter Winchell wrote in his column that Disney refused the State Department's request that K. be allowed to tour Disneyland because Russia had been running some of his pictures without paying for them.) Didn't we overdo this security business in the matter of Mr. K's tour of America? He was so closely guarded and whisked from place to place so fast he scarcely saw anything. If Mr. K saw the real America, then I've seen Russia—and the moon. . . Mrs. Khrushchev stole the show from her bouncy, truculent spouse, which prompted the News & Observer to quip, "What did she see in that man to marry him? . . . Another woman remarked thoughtfully, "I never realized Khrushchev as a human, being until I heard Mrs. Khrushchev refer to him as 'my husband.'" . . . The observation was made that Mrs. Khrushchev was the type that the "camera murders," that in real life she was a more presentable person than her photographs revealed. . . The Khrushchev daughters are not bad looking; not bad at all.

Here's a tall tale that Wild Bill Hickok enjoyed telling on himself, which proved he had a sense of humor among his other qualities. As Wild Bill told it, one day he was out on the prairie when all of a sudden a band of hostile Indians came riding over the horizon, whooping and yelling, and made straight for him. Unless he wanted his hair lifted, Wild Bill figured he'd better get out of there, the sooner the better. Off in the distance, surrounded by a clump of trees, was the mouth of a canon. Wild Bill made for that at a dead run. He had but one gun and six shots, but if he could make the shelter of the canon, he figured he could hold off the Indians and then make his escape. But it didn't work out that way, for Bill had run into a dead-end canon and he found himself bottled up, with no way to escape except past the Indians. Pretty soon his six shots were gone, but the Indians kept coming. It looked as though the Indians would get his scalp after all. There was no escape, his gun was empty, and the Indians had him where they wanted him. At this point in his story, Wild Bill would pause dramatically and look around at his audience, all hanging breathlessly on his words. They were waiting for Wild Bill to tell how he escaped from the Indians. But Wild Bill would remain silent until the suspense became so unbearable that someone was bound to blurt out, "But what happened, Wild Bill, what happened?" Then Wild Bill would look solemnly around and say, "Well, boys, I'll tell you—you killed me!" Then he would slap his leg and laugh as uproariously as his audience. And then the drinks would all be on Wild Bill.

Let's trust Russia—a little.

make only 4 yards, so Williamston kicked out on the Aces' 48. On the first play Dixon set the Edenton fans wild when he wiggled through the line and in a beautiful piece of running, aided by good blocking, he raced 52 yards for the first touchdown of the game. A kick went wide for the extra point, so the Aces led 6-0. Williamston returned Edenton's kick to their own 38. Bowen was thrown for a 2-yard loss. In two plays Paradise added 7 yards, but the Green Wave was penalized 15. Paradise made a quick kick and it was the Aces' ball on their own 41. Spivey and Tolley each gained 4 yards and Hopkins then drove to the Williamston 47 for first down. In two plays Dixon added 7 and Hopkins lacked only inches of first down, but on fourth down Hopkins made it first down on the Green Wave 45. Lassiter was smothered before he could get off a pass and lost 7. Dixon then picked up 4 and again

Hopkins lacked only about a foot for first down on a pass play. Hopkins then bulled his way to the 21 for first down. Spivey rammed through the line for 8 and Dixon was stopped for no gain. Tolley then slipped through the line for 13 yards and the Aces' second touchdown. The kick for extra point went wide and the Aces went ahead 12-0. Bowen returned the Aces' kick to his own 22. Bowen picked up 3 and a pass to Tice was broken up. Williamston was then thrown for a 10-yard loss by Johnny Phillips and Tolley, after which Williamston kicked. It was the Aces' ball on the Williamston 41. Hopkins snagged a pass which was good for 20 yards as the half ended.

Third Quarter

The Aces kicked and Bowen returned to his own 35. In three plays Paradise and Bowen picked up 7, so Williamston kicked. Spivey skirted end for first down to the Green Wave 47. Tolley picked up 3. Spivey was stopped for no gain. A pass to Britton was good for 6 and on fourth down Tolley lacked about a foot of first down, so it was Williamston's ball on their own 44. Bowen added 2 and a pass kick to Bowen was good for 6. Paradise then made it to the Edenton 45 for first down. Revels gained 4 and Sessoms lost 1. A pass was good for 3 and Williamston kicked, the ball going out on the 25. Spivey then ripped off 22 yards for first down. Dixon added 5 and Carroll Forehand 4. Hopkins then bulled his way to the Williamston 32 for first down. Forehand picked up 5 and Dixon then drove to the 20 for first down. Spivey was held to a yard and Lassiter gained 8. The Aces fumbled and Williamston recovered on their own 8 as the quarter ended.

Fourth Quarter

Three plays netted the Green Wave 8, so Paradise kicked and Britton returned to the Williamston 41, and Williamston was penalized 15. Dixon was stopped for no gain and the Aces were penalized 5. Hopkins rammed through the line for 10. On the next two plays Hopkins made it to the 16 for first down, and from there Tolley for the second time thrilled Edenton fans by sidestepping and twisting through the line to score. Hopkins crashed over the line for extra point and the Aces were out in front 19-0. Revels returned the Aces' kick to the Green Wave 23. On the first play Britton intercepted a pass and behind superb blocking he raced to the Green Wave 8 before he was pulled down. Hopkins picked up 5. Edenton fumbled but recovered after losing a few yards. Tolley was again given the ball and rammed through for his third touchdown of the game. Spivey plunged through the line for extra point and the Aces went ahead 26-0. Paradise returned Edenton's kick to his own 48. A pass was broken up but a second pass to Bowen was good for first down on the Aces' 38. Williamston fumbled and the Aces recovered on their own 42. Billy Dail was stopped for no gain. Zackie Harrell added 4 and Tolley drove to the Williamston 35 for first down. Tolley added 4 and Dail 2 and Edenton was penalized 5 yards. A pass was broken up and on the next attempt Revels intercepted, so it was Williamston's ball on their own 40. A pass netted 8 yards and two others were broken up. A line plunge was stopped cold, so it was the Aces' ball on the Williamston 39. Revels then intercepted a pass and raced all the way to the Edenton 25 before he was stopped. Britton was again at the right place at the right time to intercept a pass and raced to the Williamston 45. Tolley picked up 2 but the Aces were penalized 5. Tolley then clipped off 20 yards for first down to the 28. Dail picked up 5 as the game ended.

Sgt. Herbert Jordan On Duty In Italy

Staff Sergeant Herbert R. Jordan, U. S. Air Force, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Jordan of Route 1, Tyner, reported to duty last week at Headquarters Allied Forces Southern Europe (NATO) in Naples, Italy. Headed by U. S. Admiral Charles R. Brown, the six-nation headquarters is the nerve center and pivot of SHAPE's powerful defensive right punch. It is the control point of powerful naval, land and air units of France, Greece, Italy, Turkey, Great Britain and the United States in Southern Europe. The command's defensive responsibility stretches in a great sweeping arc for over 2,000 miles from the Resia Pass in northern Italy, across the northern borders of Greece to Mt. Ararat in Eastern Turkey. Much of this area fronts Iron Curtain satellites, including the Soviet Union itself.

Edenton Aces Win Fourth Game In Row By Defeating Stubborn Williamston Green Wave 26-0

Williamston and the Edenton Band joined the Williamston Band in providing entertainment at half time.

First Quarter
Williamston kicked to start the game, with the Aces downed on the 20. Three plays netted 6 yards and Tolley ten made 9 yards for first down on the 35. In four successive plays Hopkins lacked about a yard for first down and the ball went over to Williamston on the Edenton 42. On the second play Bowen reeled off 10 yards for a first down on the 32. After picking up 8 yards on two plays, a pass was broken up and Williamston kicked into the end zone. With the ball on the 20, the Aces kicked after three plays netted 6 yards. Williamston returned to their own 37. Revels was stopped for no gain and on two plays Bowen was thrown for losses of 2 and 5 yards. Williamston kicked and it was Edenton's ball on the Williamston 43. Spivey drove through for 8 and Hopkins got loose for 25 for a first down on the Green Wave 10. Three plays netted the Aces only 3 yards. A pass was broken up and it was Williamston's ball on their own 11. Paradise hit the line for 2 yard as the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

Bowen was stopped for no gain and Sessoms was able to
