

Washington — North Carolina's first six United States Senators have been discussed in previous columns. They were, in the order of their succession, Benjamin Hawkins, Samuel Johnson, Alexander Martin, Timothy Bloodworth, Jesse Franklin and David Stone.

James Turner
The seventh Senator was James Turner from politically powerful Warren County. He had served as Governor from 1802 until 1805, when the legislature elected him to the United States Senate. Turner was a staunch supporter of the new Jeffersonian democracy that had political control of North Carolina. Moving to North Carolina when four years old from his native Virginia, like many other of our early leaders he served in the Revolution and was a member of the General Assembly. Turner was re-elected to a second term and remained in the Senate to November 21, 1816, the date he resigned on account of ill health. He died at his plantation near Warrenton on July 15, 1824, and was buried there.

Francis Locke
Upon the resignation of Senator David Stone in 1814, the legislature selected Francis Locke of Rowan County. He resigned the office on December 5, 1815, without having qualified for the seat, according to the records.

Montfort Stokes
The eighth United States Senator to represent North Carolina was Montfort Stokes, also a native Virginian. He lived and held office in Rowan County before moving to Wilkes County where he was residing when the legislature named him to the Senate on December 4, 1816, to the vacancy created by Senator Turner's resignation. Senator Stokes was a naval hero of the Revolution. After his Senate service ended on March 3, 1823, he became Governor of North Carolina, was elected to the legislature and appointed Indian Commissioner by President Andrew Jackson. He died at Fort Gibson in what is now Oklahoma on November 4, 1842 and was buried there.

3 3/4% INTEREST ON NEW U.S. SAVINGS BONDS NOW IN EFFECT

Congress makes the Bonds you buy and Bonds you already own better than ever!

Now U.S. Savings Bonds are a better buy than ever in three important ways:

- All Series E and H Bonds bought since June 1, 1959 now earn 3 3/4% interest when held to maturity.
- Older Bonds will also pay more—an extra 1/2%, from June 1 on, if you hold them to maturity.
- All Series E Bonds, old or new, now carry an automatic extension privilege; they'll keep paying liberal interest for 10 years beyond maturity.

Three big new dollar benefits that make it smart to buy new Bonds—and hang on to the ones you have!

40 million Americans now own Bonds

But a good return isn't the only reason so many people buy Bonds. They've discovered that there's no easier, safer, more American way to save.

You can buy Bonds automatically, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work; you can buy them where you bank; your youngsters can even buy them at school, through the School Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Stamps.

The U. S. Government guarantees that the cash value of your Bonds cannot drop; it can only grow. And if your Bonds should be lost, stolen, or destroyed, the Treasury will replace them free.

Finally, every Bond you buy does a big job for America. Because today peace costs money—money for military strength and for science; and money saved by individuals to keep our economy sound.

Your Bonds help provide this money—help America keep the peace. So, to build a brighter future for yourself and your family—and to protect it—save with U.S. Savings Bonds. They're better than ever.
