tuberculosis when you send them a happy thing like a Christmas card. But then I felt different about it. Christmas Seals are happy, too. They mean something's being done about TB. And that's surely a cheerful thought.

We were in the basement laundry of our apartment house and had got into conversation with the woman whose wash was spinning around in the machine next to ours. We'd exchanged some current biographical facts and we had turned her thoughts to Christmas Seals.

Though tuberculosis is still a serious problem in this country—a quarter of a million people are ill with it right now—it isn't the sneaking scourge it was fifty years ago. Christmas Seals have had a lot to do with that. The money that generous people like our neighbor send in for Christmas Seals supports the work of the 2,700 tuberculosis associations round the country which make battling TB their business.

Research And Home Economists Answer Homemakers' Questions:
How does low-fat cottage cheese differ in food value from creamed cottage cheese? Low-fat cottage cheese has very little fat and vitamin A. Creamed cottage cheese usually has about 5 per cent fat and therefore furnishes more calories and vitamin A.

How is milk homogenized? Milk is homogenized by a mechanical process that breaks up fat into small particles and distributes them throughout the milk. Cream does not form in homogenized milk because the fat particles do not rise to the top.

Does white cabbage have a lower food value than red? Not necessary. Some varieties of white cabbage have as much vitamin C (the main nutrient) as red cabbage. The amount present depends in part upon conditions under which cabbage has been stored and length of storage period. The method of cooking also affects the final value.

Is there any difference in food value between green and yellow dried peas? Food values of green and yellow dried peas are very similar.

Is tomato juice a good source of vitamin C? Yes. One-half cup of tomato juice will supply about one-fourth of the daily allowance of vitamin C.

For Variety — Use milk in creamed soups . . . on hot and ready-to-eat cereal . . . in bowls of hot milk toast . . . in cocoa or milk shakes . . . heated and mixed with equal parts of hot coffee or tea . . . in puddings or custards. Eat ice cream, in a variety of flavors, plain or with fruit toppings — make your own.

Cheese is good for us. Use it often—melted in toasted sandwiches or used in cold ones . . . melted in scalloped potatoes, in rarebits and souffles, in sauces with hard-cooked eggs, seafood or vegetables over toast . . . cheese in vegetable or fruit salads, with fruit for dessert, with crackers or in small cubes for snacktime.
