

Three P's PERSONAL AND PRIVATE PROBLEMS

This column will attempt to answer personal and private problems of the citizens who submit their questions to this column. These inquiries do not deal with family and social problems and will cover questions that come up in adjusting oneself to society; economic questions; no-fault adjustment to business life and careers. All inquiries are handled in strictest confidence. All inquiries and questions should be addressed to "Three P's", care of The Chowan Herald, Edenton, N. C.

Dear Three P's:
I own my own business and employ six people and try to pay them a fair wage, provide paid vacations and furnish what I think are good working conditions. Every year, if business warrants, I pay a bonus from the profits. It is interesting to note that regardless of whether I make a profit or not they expect the bonus and a bigger bonus each year. There are two phases of business I would like your comment: One, when is labor going to stop asking more and more for less and less and when is business going to be relieved of making out so many forms for Federal and State governments besides doing all of the accounting and collecting for the various government agencies. There is a strike in one of the industries from which I buy products and I know it will mean an increase in costs and a reduction in my profit. When is it going to end?

Dear Job:
You have asked two interesting questions and to understand the answers you must be familiar with the social-economic and political philosophy developing in this country. As for labor it is no longer a question of adequate wages and decent working conditions but rather a drive for participation in profits without the responsibility of management or providing capital. Whether they acknowledge it or not a great many labor leaders are socialist-communist minded and follow the Marxist principle that labor produces all wealth without making any allowance for providing the risk capital, the initiative, the ideas and management to provide jobs and products for the consumer. For the past several years labor has been demanding representation on boards of directors of corporations, representation in the executive management as well as access to the books. Then labor has initiated the concept of take home pay. This means that a man who is paid $100 per week, has various deductions made from his pay by management for Federal and State taxes, Social Security and other government charges, actually has a net of $75 per week, considers that his pay is only $75 per week, and that management should assume all of the charges. This is one of the weaknesses of payroll deductions for various government taxes, the individual does not feel that he is paying taxes for the support of the government. At the expiration of every labor contract, labor demands more and more increases in wages as well as additional fringe benefits. There has not been a new labor contract that does not provide increases in both of these items. Hence the increase in the cost of the product to the consumer. Labor is now reaching the point that they realize that demanding more, more, and more increases is not giving the working man as much as they think because of further deductions for various taxes. Therefore, in the future when labor feels they have reached the maximum beneficial wage level, the demand will be for more and more fringe benefits which Uncle Sam does not tax. The other side of the picture is excessive profits made by corporations. The time is coming when the consumer is going to demand that there be a reduction in the profits by a reduction in the cost of the product to the consumer. This is going to be the battle in the next few years.

As to the various reports and statistics required by the various State and Federal Governments, these are bound to increase unless there is a strong protest. We are statistically minded and we generally think that all of the answers are to be found in figures, forgetting that you can interpret figures to give you any answer you want. But economists and social leaders like to fool around with these statistics and write a great many reports and initiate reforms on the basis of these reports. Some industries have to fill out over a thousand reports a year for government use, a great many of which are never read, for the volume is too great for any one to read and digest. Then the government saves a great deal of expense by having industry collect the taxes and the government gets the tax money before the income is totally earned. It is discouraging for a small business to have his overhead cost increased without an opportunity to recoup such expense. The only thing you can do is to protest and if there are enough protests maybe the politicians will do something to help you, otherwise you are a victim of bureaucracy.

Dear Three P's:
It is not often that as a husband I complain but my marital life is such that I will have to do something about it or explode. My wife gets little tantrums either about our wonderful children or over some difference with me. If she does not get her own way she will run off to mother and fill her with the wrong view of the situation. I definitely spanked her once and she ran to mother. Her mother is beginning to interfere with my home life and I am getting fed up with it. What do you suggest?

Dear Polonius:
The old saying is that a man is master of his household and if he does not become the master some one else will take over. This has been true ever since the ice age. Mamma-in-law may be a wonderful person but you will just have to put your foot down and tell mamma-in-law to stay away from your problems and that hereafter you are going to handle her daughter or else. Your wife apparently is a spoiled child and has not matured in many ways and perhaps a more frequent spanking may be the answer; in fact, maybe she expects it, for you know some women are that way and they like to have their men assert their mastery. So go to it.

Robert M. McIntosh Seeks Senate Seat
Robert M. McIntosh of Charlotte this week announced that he will be a candidate for United States Senator in the May Democratic primary election. In his announcement Mr. McIntosh said he pledges to work for the end of government by fear and deceit; to promote the principles of justice for all people, farmers, working men and women; to assist in solving the race issue without vulgarity and without surrender to the degenerate elements; to investigate and explain his position with respect to all laws; to lend the office of U. S. Senator to any citizen who has personal need of help and to be available at all times to render what service he can; to aid the end of fear and deceit in foreign affairs; in short, to do the very best he can to promote understanding, decency, peace and happiness among all citizens of North Carolina and all people of the earth.

Rather Low
The two friends had imbibed too freely and found themselves staggering down the railroad tracks. "Shay, Charlie," said one, "does this stairway seem awfully long to you?" "It ain't the length that bothers me," Charlie replied, "but this railing is too darn low."

competitiveness of the Christian churches. If it is true that our divisions serve as an obstacle to growth, it is any wonder there is uneasiness? Second, we are uneasy for we see that some of our divisions are not the result of theological or ethical convictions, but are, rather, reflections of the divisions we find in the secular world.

There is the great division of the East and the West, the communist world and the western world. Here are deep chasms of misunderstanding created by political, social, economic and ideological forces. They are both bitter and dangerous. But the more humiliating tragedy is the fact that the same divisions are found within the churches. In all communist countries there are Christian churches. Yet, communication and understanding, for the most part, have broken down between the Christians of the West and the Christians in these countries. We are tempted to brand them as communists, and they are tempted to brand us as capitalists, instead of starting from the assumption that we are all Christians. There is, indeed, no greater challenge confronting the world church than that of establishing understanding between Christians behind "curtains" and those outside. To combat this handicap, we must maintain with our fellow Christians open doors and open minds. It is no small undertaking. No one has the final answer. The real issue is not one of resolutions and organization, although these play their part, but one of the spirit.

It is only when we live close to Him that we discover ways to deep understanding between Methodists and Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Lutherans, between those in Russia or Communist China and those outside, and between those of us in varying walks of life in our everyday living. Here are just a few ways whereby a deeper understanding of fellow Christians is possible: first, we need to worship together. No year should pass that we as individuals and as congregations should not worship with those of other traditions. It is in common worship that we discover afresh that it is Jesus Christ that makes us one. Second, we need to witness to each other. In other words, we need to talk. One denomination does not agree with another on many things. We need to talk together, and this calls for us to both listen and speak. Third, we need to work together. In this way we can best meet the calls of human need which should be one of the fundamental concerns of a Christ-like life. Only by heeding these basic rules can we ever hope to establish harmony among different denominations which are, after all, just branches of one great tree—Christianity as typified by Christ Himself.

says Housewife
"I would have lost my home if I had not had Blue Cross. My total hospital bill was $716.70 and Blue Cross paid all but $11.00. When you're ill, it is such a relief to know you are a member. Our entire family sincerely appreciates Blue Cross and its fine reputation."

"TREATING MY POTATO SEED PIECES WITH ORTHOCIDE® IS A MUST"
Potato grower Lyndon Hallock says: "We never know how long we have to keep our potato seed pieces after cutting. That's why treating them with ORTHOCIDE 10 Dust is a 'must' practice. It's inexpensive insurance against rot during storage as well as giving excellent disease protection while the seed piece is in the ground." ORTHO (caption) protects potato seed pieces from seed rot and damp-off at planting time. Also, allows you to cut pieces in advance of planting without costly interruptions to cut more pieces.
